Why Washington Bared Atrocities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (INS)—The White House disclosed today that the Japanese government will not permit the American government to send any further medical supplies, food or other aid to fighting men who now are Japanese prisoners of war.

Positive information of the Japanese attitude having reached this government, the White House stated, the government reached its decision to make public the carefully authenticated and documented report of Japanese atrocities which was released to the public today.

Britain Warns We'll Avenge Jap Atrocities

Great Britain joined the United States today in revealing the wanton atrocities committed by the Japanese on prisoners of war. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told a shocked House of Commons that thousands of British troops had died as prisoners of the Japanese after being compelled to live "under tropical jungle conditions without adequate shelter, clothing, food or medical attention."

His words echoed the shocking revelations made public today by the United States government of the terrible treatment of the heroes of Bataan and Corregidor by their Japanese captors.

ALLIES TO REMEMBER

Eden voiced the attitude of his country and of America, too, when he said solemnly:

"Let the Japanese government reflect that in time to come the record of their military authorities in this war will not be forgotten."

The joint report released by the United States Army and Navy broke at last the rigid censorship maintained by the high command on the almost unbelievable reports that came out of the Pacific, to tell what happened to the men whose valor slowed and delayed the tide of Japanese conquest.

Compiled from the sworn statements of officers who survived the starvation and torture and escaped, it catalogued the infamy of a brutal enemy, and wrote in shocking terms the code of the Japanese warrior—to subject 36,000 gallant soldiers to deliberate starvation, to shoot in cold blood the thirsty who seek water, to watch sick men writhe and deny them medicine, to horsewhip those who helped their fallen comrades, to beat men with two-by-fours, to behead those who try to escape, and to bury tortured men alive.

The three who lived to return

50 Nazi Planes K.O'd in Italy

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 28 (AP)—The German 10th Army, backed by planes, struck with fury at the Allies' Nettuno beachhead but was repulsed by British forces in a battle near Carroceto, on the Via Anziate, 10 miles north of Anzio and 21 miles south of Rome, Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time the Germans suffered their greatest air defeat of the Italian campaign, losing at least 50 planes in 24 hours in sky battles over the beachhead and over southern France, where Flying Fortresses and Liberators struck at three airfields near Marseille and Montpellier and crippled the bases from which Germans raid Allied shipping off the Italian coast.

Heavy German armored trains, backed up almost to Rome, shelled Allied troops in the fan-shaped beachhead area, and correspondents' reports said 60-ton Tiger tanks were assembling along the fringes of the beachhead as the enemy recovered from his surprise and mustered resources for a fiery contest for the Italian capital.

But today's communique from advanced headquarters said Gen. Clark's Fifth Army had enlarged its bridgehead and taken many German prisoners.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead, in a delayed dispatch, said the British and Americans had established by the end of the fourth day a wedge so strong that Rome now was menaced, and that optimism was running high among the troops, with men, guns, armor and supplies pouring into a broad area.

The Fifth Army has extended its grip up the coast to a point 12 miles nort of Anzio, another report said, and Americans edged forward two miles in another sector yesterday.

Gen. Alexander's Italian headquarters reported the beachhead was at least five miles deep at all points now, generally six miles deep, and much deeper at some points.

While Allied tank destroyers and columns of infantry flowed inland, special German troops had been raced by truck into the flat, almost treeless country and posted in farmhouses with machine guns in a desperate effort to bar the path to their vital communications.

Elements of two German divisions, the Hermann Goering armored division and the 29th armored Grenadiers, now have been identified in assaults on the bridgehead.

German prisoners said Hitler had given orders to the Tenth Army to hold fast at all costs to the Gustav Line on the old front to the south.

The bitterest opposition offered to American and French troops north and south of Cassino plainly told the orders were being carried out.

The Americans, after plunging across the Rapido above Cassino in a flanking stab at the gateway to the Liri valley, scaled one mountain height and made progress against others.

The French, farther to the north, were driven off two hard-won ridges by a desperate German counterattack. But the French beat off a second thrust and made small gains southwest of Belvedere.

Mop-up Raid Lashes Berlin

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Hundreds of RAF night bombers touched off fields of flame in Berlin again last night in a possible coupe de grace to the Nazi nerve center, previously described by Gen. H. H. Arnold as three-quarters destroyed.

American bombers took over the assault on Hitler's Europe shortly after daybreak today, thundering out over the general area of the Nazis' much-touted "Atlantic wall," and a U. S. headquarters announcement said "a military target in northern France" had been blasted.

The raid, in the same general area where mystery targets have been hit heavily several times in six weeks, was the Americans' eighth this month and the second this week.

The British announcement described the 12th heavy assault of the obliteration campaign as "very strong," a statement borne out by the loss of 34 aircraft in night operations.

Other RAF bombers hit at Helgoland, the Nazis' mighty North sea island fortress, while others struck at unnamed targets in western Germany and northern France and laid mines.

For all practical purposes, this latest attack in the campaign launched last Nov. 18 to knock Berlin from the war might be described as a "mopping-up operation." It certain was not considered here as the last assault planned against the German capital, but rather as one of the decisive finishing strokes.

The air ministry's communique did not announce the tonnage, but it likely approached the 1500-ton average of previous heavy attacks. Berlin has now heaved and trembled to more than 18,000 tons of bombs in little more than two months.

Early Swedish reports said the raid left great fires in outer districts of Berlin where most of the capital's heavy industry is concentrated. The center of the city, pulverized in previous attacks, apparently escaped further damage.

Allied planes renewed the daylight assaults shortly after daybreak today with light sorties over the channel and later a strong force of raiders headed in the direction of Calais.

The Aftonbladet's correspondent said they feinted in several directions over Helgoland to confuse the defenders.

Confirming to some extent the belief that the heavy assaults have reached the "mopping-up" stage, the Aftonbladet's correspondent said a high percentage of the bombs was strewn among the ruins left in previous attacks, piling destruction on destruction.

The Berlin attack followed daylight sweeps over northern France, Belgium and Holland yesterday by British and Canadian airmen, who shot down 10 Nazi fighters.

Reds Rush Into Lake Ilmen City

By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, Jan. 28 (INS)—Red Army troops were reported today to have smashed into the outskirts of the rail city of Shimsk, on the western shores of Lake Ilmen, in the unchecked offensive from the Leningrad area which has carried some Soviet columns to within less than 40 miles of the Estonian frontier.

The Leningrad area itself has been completely liberated, according to an official announcement, by the armies pressing relentlessly forward on a 120-mile front extending from Novgorod to west of Leningrad.

Sweeping westward from captured Krasnogvardeisk, 30 miles southwest of Russia's second city, a contingent of Gen. Govorov's troops occupied the rail town of Volosevo. This enemy strongpoint, taken by the Soviets "in a swift attack," lies 40 miles west of the old Estonian frontier.

Southwest of Oranienbaum, Govorox sought to straighten the front, capturing among 40 other localities the town of Zakornovo, 21 miles northwest of Volosove. Thus, the Red army was advancing westward along a 20-mile battle line.

In this area, according to the official Soviet communique, the Russians killed approximately 3000 German troops in a day's fighting. This number, however, was little more than one-third the total number of Nazis slain in the day's action.

Southwest of Leningrad other units of Govorov's army overcame a stubborn enemy and marshy terrain to take the important highway and rail junction of Toma.

Olsen Girl Goes To See Captain

On what she had expected to be her sixth day as his bride, Miss Helen M. Olsen of Newburyport came through Boston today on her way to New York and an anticipated call upon Army Capt. Philip W. Beatman.

The 27-year-old Coast artillery officer failed to arrive for their wedding in Newburyport last Saturday and his whereabouts was a mystery until he voluntarily placed himself in the care of Army doctors yesterday in New York.

It was announced by the Second Service Command that he had been hospitalized there, but whether the 24-year-old Miss Olsen will have reunion with him, or is merely seeking an explanation—or if she will be allowed to see him at all—could only be conjecture.

During her brief hour in Boston she declined to discuss her intentions.

She arrived at North Station from Newburyport with her mother at 9 a. m., and they were met by a woman who described herself as "a family friend."

The trio went to the Back Bay station, where mother and daughter remained in seclusion until the 10 o'clock train for New York pulled in. Then they hastened aboard the train, but the mother descended after seeing Helen to her Pullman seat.

Afterward, the "family friend" said the girl would visit Capt. Beatman at the hospital this afternoon and would return home tonight.

Yesterday the girl who had expected to become Capt. Beatman's bride last Saturday was unsuccessful in efforts to reach him by telephone at the Army hospital on Governors Island, New York.

Meanwhile, there is a possibility, according to reports, that the officer, whose assignment has been with a Coast Artillery unit at Salisbury Beach, may be transferred to the hospital at Ft. Banks, Winthrop.

Yank Guests Amuse British

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (by transport plane)—The old manor house where the staff command of this regiment is billeted, is a house typical of the landed gentry of this no longer merrie England—an angular stone manse with gabled roof, and the dignity of age. It stands on a grassy rise overlooking expanses of rolling lawns that war has sent back to seed. It is one of thousands of such mansions of the once well-to-do class in the rural, garden country, which the military has commandeered, willy-nilly of the occupant's wishes, and turned into U. S. Army quarters.

This house is unusual. The elderly couple, with two slightly less elderly servants, occupy one cloistered wing and have left their furniture intact. So the staff lives among inlaid, rosewood furniture, Louis XIV fittings, marble sculptures and a library of leather bound books. A gilt-faced grandfather clock leisurely chimes the hours. It is a house that reeks of mournful memory, and hardly the habitation expected by men who have so lately come from the sordid filth of Africa and Sicily where their quarters were an open trench or a flea-infested Arab hut. It is like a transition from inferno to paradise.

Tragedy in Pictures

I have a special reason for stressing this. Because the gray couple—the invalid husband and his gentle-faced, fragile wife who sometimes drifts through the hallways like a frail wraith, are symbols of calamity.

There is a record of tragedy on the living room walls—a series of three pastel portraits of the same sunny haired child. The first was drawn in 1898, that of a wide-eyed, peach-cheeked infant. The second is dated 1903, a serious faced boy. The third was made in 1912, showing a sober, thin-faced intelligent schoolboy.

That boy is recently dead in Italy, killed by German shrapnel in the full hour of manhood—the estate's only heir. He left no issue. So the old parents live briefly on, perhaps without enthusiasm, but also without lament—as thousands of other English parents are turning expressionless faces to the world and smothering their grief.

The people of this neck of Britain, and that means folk of all social levels, are treating the American soldiers hospitably. I mean that emphatically. In the hundreds of square miles that this writer has toured he has not seen an instance or heard mention of friction between our troops and the civilians, despite their difference in temperament, tradition and custom. And your emissary has probed for such signs.

Proud of Our Boys

This relationship works both ways. The people, the sound, middle core of England, are now being generous, affable and unreserved. And the U. S. soldiers have been self-disciplined, courteous and "on side." From what I've seen—and it's been comprehensive—Americans can feel proud of our gang, simple youths who form a cross section of the U. S. Armies—like Pvt. Will L. Melanson of 32 Westland st., Saugus, who worked in an alloy foundry under Foreman Tor Torsen, and now carries ammunition.

And Pvt. Savine Pinnelle of 22 Henchman st., Boston, who liked to eat his pasta vasoola in Boni's

AT THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY'S BEACHHEAD, Jan. 28 (INS)—A Brooklyn doughboy captured a Brooklyn expatriate today.

I saw Sergt. Robin Ehalt of 201 Covert st., Brooklyn, N. Y., bringing in a prisoner talking English.

In perfect English, the prisoner explained to Ehalt that he had also resided in Brooklyn, on Broome st., and has several brothers in the American Army.

Ehalt told me, "He was mighty glad to be captured and kept saying over and over he wished he hadn't ever left Brooklyn. He even asked me how the Dodgers did this past season."

Most prisoners taken in this section are of poor quality.

Congress Bloc Backs Legion Veterans' Bill

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—Powerful House and Senate forces lined up today behind the bill, sponsored by the American Legion, to guarantee to every discharged veteran who needs it a full year's pay in the form of unemployment compensation.

LAUDS SOLDIERS—Back in San Francisco after seven months in the South Pacific, Comdr. Gene Tunney uses his hands to illustrate how a Marine was bayoneted through the neck by Japs. The Marine, now recovering, also had a bullet in his brain. Tunney lauded fighting spirit of Yanks overseas.

The new drive for a measure of real justice for former servicemen and women was led on the House side by Rep. John E. Rankin of Mississippi, chairman of the World War Veterans' Committee.

Working in close co-operation with him are Reps. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, Brooks Hayes of Arkansas, Will Rogers, Jr., of California, Thomas J. Lane of Massachusetts, Foster Stearns of New Hampshire and Glenn Beall of Maryland.

Indicating a change for the better in the mood of the House toward veterans, Speaker Sam Rayburn turned the complete veterans' omnibus bill over to Rankin's committee. Rankin tried to have this done on Monday, but at that time his effort was defeated by a technicality of the rules.

Now, for the first time, the sweeping Legion program of a "bill of rights for G-I Joe and G-I Jane" is in the hands of a friendly House group.

On the Senate side, the bill is backed by Senators Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, Walter F. George of Georgia, David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Tom Connally of Texas, Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, Scott Lucas of Illinois, Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan, Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin and Chan Gurney of South Dakota.

The mustering-out bill, as it now stands, gives $100 to each veteran who served in the continental United States for 60 days; $200 to everyone serving in the U. S. more than 60 days; and $300 to everyone seeing foreign service.

200 Depth Bombs Used to Sink Sub

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Our Navy has plenty of patience where the sinking of an enemy sub is concerned.

The Navy reports another U-boat sunk in the Atlantic, after 27 hours of strike-and-duck tactics by an escort carrier, her planes and destroyers. More than 200 depth charges were dropped.

The sub was discovered about 8 o'clock one morning by a scout plane. The sub crash-dived. Other planes and two destroyers joined the hunt.

Three hours later one destroyer made contact and dropped the first depth charge. Far into the night the battle continued.

At midnight the sub surfaced to recharge its batteries. Depth charges sent her down and covered the water with oil. Not until after 11 o'clock the next morning did the final blow blast the sub to the surface and then nose it finally below the water.

SOLDIER VOTE DRIVE SPLITS G. O. P. RANKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Sen. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, split the Republican opposition to the Administration-supported war ballot bill with an announcement today that he would vote for the measure in order to assure participation of service personnel in the November election.

Criticizing President Roosevelt's charge of "fraud" against a previously-approved "states' rights" bill, Vandenberg told a reporter he planned to offer an amendment to facilitate the handling of state as well as federal absentee ballots.

Senate Republicans generally found themselves thrown on the defensive by Democratic charges that their opposition to the pending measure is political, rather than constitutional.

Administration Democrats, spurred by President Roosevelt's blasting message on the subject Wednesday, pounced on their opponents with charges that they are seeking to prevent the service men and women from voting because they fear most of them would back President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

Republicans were ready to offer at least two alternatives.

One would permit use of the proposed federal war ballot only for troops overseas, with the Republican and Southern Democrat-favored state absentee ballots being furnished to service personnel in this country.

Another, offered by Senator Ball (R.) of Minnesota, would specify that the federal war ballot be furnished only to personnel from states which had not arranged to mail absentee ballots 45 days before the November general election.

Bricker Blasts Long Delay on Soldier Vote

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio charged here that politics in Washington threatens to deprive eight or nine millions of Americans in the armed services of their voting privileges in the coming presidential campaign.

He placed the blame for delay in passing soldiers' vote legislation on Congress and the Administration. Standing squarely behind Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and other Republicans in Congress, the governor denied President Roosevelt's charge of "fraud" in the bill which would retain supervision of elections in the States.

Gov. Bricker spoke as the McKinley Day orator at the annual dinner of the United Spanish War Veterans.

"I need not remind you veterans of the war with Spain," said Gov. Bricker, "that under William McKinley the Philippine Islands were brought under the American Flag, and under the beneficent government of the United States were prepared for ultimate independence under their own flag.

"What characterized his services by which we can remember him? First of all, he promised the American people sound money, returning prosperity, encouraged business, protection of private enterprise, jobs for labor.

"He kept those promises faithfully and in the keeping of those promises, he set a standard which all should follow.

HANDS OF BUREAUCRATS

"Since that day we have seen the policy-making power of the government taken out of the hands of the Congress and placed in the hands of bureaucrats who have been dominating the daily lives of the citizens of our country, not alone for the purposes of war but also in the days of peace.

"If America comes back to the standards of McKinley, if the liberty for which he fought, if the vision of a free world which was in his heart and soul the day he died, is ever to come to pass we must take the policy making power of government out of the hands of the bureaucrats and put it back in the hands of the elected representatives of the people of the United States.

"The Congress of the United States yesterday belatedly appropriated money to take care of those who are being discharged from the armed services, to fill an obligation, to fulfill a duty of the government to those who fight for its preservation.

MAXIMUM BENEFITS

"It's not adequate to the great needs of the days ahead, of course, but it is an expression of a grateful nation's duty to those who have fought for her.

"It is our duty as an organization that every one of us as patriotic citizens should see that money is properly administered as appropriated and that the veterans of this war secure the maximum benefits from this expenditure.

"Now there has been a great deal of discussion also about the vote of the soldiers that are enlisted in this war.

"The Congress of the United States and the Administration have too long delayed giving authority for the soldiers' vote.

"There's too much politics in that measure.

"And there has been no fraud on the part of the Congress either.

"Those boys are lighting the fires of freedom among peoples and among nations whose language and customs they do not understand. We owe to them a sacred duty, we have a covenant with them to keep the fires of liberty burning here at home brightly against the day of their return."

Chief of Legion To Confer Here

Coming here from Washington, where he was a leader of the drive for legislation to provide adequate aid for disabled and discharged veterans, National Comdr. Warren H. Atherton of the American Legion will confer with prominent Massachusetts Legionnaires tonight and tomorrow.

Chairman Joseph M. Donovan of the Mass. State Department, A. L., publicity committee, said the national commander was expected to reach the Hotel Statler at 8:30 p. m., to hold a press conference.

Tomorrow he will hold another news conference at 10 a. m., later attending the State Department executive committee meeting in the hotel.

Clue to Killing of Girl Writer Sought in Ashes

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 28—Police were hopeful today of finding somewhere within the reaches of the vast ash pit of the Woolworth building furnace, a clinker containing a piece of bone, a tooth or some trinket that might help reveal the fate of Rose M. Broncato, 28, women's page editor of the New Haven Journal Courier.

Thus far, investigators do not possess a solitary bit of evidence to support the confession, signed by Walter William Law, former superintendent of the building, that he murdered the young woman and cremated her in the fire box last July.

Not even the surprise statement of Law's wife that she shared his secret can serve as tangible evidence, said State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman—since she did not see any body and the state recognizes she is under no legal obligation to tell anything, because she is the wife of the accused.

Detective Sergt. Howard Young donned overalls and crawled into the still warm pit of the furnace to start a ghoulish search seen likely to require several days.

Also under way is a methodical search of the Wintergreen ave. dump, where ashes taken from the Woolworth Building during the summer were deposited.

Detective Capt. Raymond J. Eagan said a steam shovel may be pressed into service to speed excavation work.

Bathtub Death Probers Wait Test Report

WORCESTER, Jan. 28—Asserting he was not ready to accept accidental drowning as cause of the death of Mrs. Irene Campbell, 25, whose body was found in the bathtub of her Hotel Standish room here, Detective Capt. John J. Kalaghan said today that chemical analysis of the woman's organs "will have an important bearing on the case."

A report on the analysis, being made by a pathologist at St. Vincent's hospital here, is expected later today.

Meanwhile, the victim's estranged husband, Jesse A. Campbell, 24, of Rome, Ga., continued under questioning after being granted a continuance to Feb. 5, in central court, on a non-support complaint, which had been brought by his wife, and a charge of carrying a dangerous weapon. He pleaded innocent to both counts.

Seaman Loses Papers, Cash

Somewhere between Jamaica Plain and South Station, Seaman 1/c Leo F. O'Brien, 17, U. S. N., lost his wallet containing a train ticket to New York and $34 in cash and today his mother, Mrs. Edward J. O'Brien, Jr., of 167 Boylston st., Jamaica Plain, asked the aid of the Boston American in recovering it.

The young sailor was particularly anxious to get back the valuable identification papers and family pictures, his mother said. He was en route to New York to return to his ship when he lost the wallet. O'Brien left for New York early today after the Navy got him reservations on a plane.

Anyone finding the youth's wallet is urged to communicate with Mrs. O'Brien at her home.

Romance Triumphs Over War Wounds; Hero to Wed WAVE

The romance of an heroic Salem aviator and his New Hampshire sweetheart, a WAVE, today revealed a triumph of courage and love over the wounds and tragedy of war.

The story of the failure of German Messerschmitts to drown out the joyful peal of wedding bells was told by Lieut. Dudley R. Clark, of Lafayette st., Salem, at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., where he is recuperating from loss of a leg suffered in the invasion of Sicily.

Lieut. Dudley R. Clark

Lieut. Clark, son of Rogers D. Clark, cashier of the First National Bank of Boston, was shot down after rescuing his helpless squadron commander.

A daily visitor at the hospital is his sweetheart, Miss Sarah Felton, of Bedford, N. H., a WAVE seaman 2/c, who is stationed in the nation's capital. Their discussions mainly concern wedding plans, the hero says.

Lieut. Clark is learning to get around on an artificial limb, even practising to dance, and looking forward to owning a sport plane

"I was pretty low for a time, thinking about what the family and my girl would think," he explained. "But on a hospital ship you always see somebody worse off than you are and you begin to feel a little lucky."

Lieut. Clark, who enlisted in the air force in April, 1942, was credited with two enemy planes before his wound put him out of action. In addition to the DFC, he has the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.

The break at Massachusetts ave., and Bow st., Quincy sq., caused street surfaces and sidewalks to buckle, but Highway Supt. Timothy Goode said no water seeped into the rapid transit tunnel.

Worcester Youth Killed

BETHANY BEACH, Del., Jan. 28 (INS)—Three persons were killed today when a parked automobile overturned after being rammed by an Army jeep. The dead included William F. Dolan, 23, a Coast Guardsman from Worcester, Mass.

Teachers' Pay Raise Studied

In response to pay raise demands by spokesmen for 5000 teachers and school employes, the Boston school committee at its Feb. 17 meeting will study salary schedule changes and consider a proposal to hire married women as teachers at full pay for the remainder of the war.

Miss Mary L. Barlow, president of the High School Women Teachers' Ass'n, told the committeemen that the teachers want an increase of 12½ per cent over their present pay of $3072. Equal pay and rank with men is sought.

Speech improvement teachers ask a $192 raise to bring them up from $2496 to the same pay as elementary teachers; school nurses seek an increase in their maximum from $1920 to $2400; truant officers, now getting $2800, ask $600 more.

Two Army Relief Branches Merged

Mother Tells How Baby Was Scalded

Tearfully and hesitantly, Mrs. Helen Gurich of Linwood sq., Roxbury, whose 22-months-old son died of scalding water burns, testified in Suffolk Superior Court today that Mrs. Grace Davis of Prospect st., West Roxbury, told he rthe baby was placed in hot water and left alone.

Mrs. Davis, at whose home the child was boarding while Mrs. Gurich worked at the Navy Yard, is charged with manslaughter in connection with the infant's death.

"She told me she put John in the water and went upstairs," Mrs. Gurich testified. "She told me she didn't test the water to see if it was too hot. She said John screamed, but she took no notice because she said he was in the habit of screaming."

Referring to bruises she said were on the child's body the week before the tragedy, Mrs. Gurich testified Mrs. Davis told her "I'm going to teach him a lesson."

"I asked her what she hit him with and she showed me a man's heavy slipper," Mrs. Gurich said. "She said she got so mad at him she would grab anything and use it."

During cross-examination by Atty. Samuel L. Segal, Mrs. Gurich said she remarried Oct. 7, 1943, three weeks after her son5s tragic death.

Hub Mother to Get Son's Purple Heart

Mrs. Marie Passanisi of K st., South Boston, was notified by the War Department today of the posthumous award of the Purple Heart to her son, Pvt. Antonio J. Passanisi, 24, who was killed in action in Italy on Dec. 17, 1943. A veteran of three years in service, Pvt. Passanisi leaves two brothers, Dominic and Joseph, both in the armed forces.

Canned Vegetable Supply Up

Housewives will find canned vegetables more plentiful in stores next month, OPA officials said today, after announcing point value reductions on all major varieties, effective Sunday.

Meanwhile, a small army of OPA inspectors and volunteers will continue to check Greater Boston stores for violations of the price posting and ceiling price rules. Infractions discovered thus far are reported at a minimum, most of them due to carelessness.

Green point values on some types of fruit will be higher, while brown stamps will buy less meat and cheese.

Grapefruit, valued at 14 points in January, was made ration free, but peaches for the average size No. 2 can jumped 2 points to 20; fruit cocktail, fruits for salad and mixed nuts jumped four points to 24 for the same size can, but cranberries and cranberry sauce decreased 4 points, with falling off of seasonable demand.

Apple sauce increased 4 points to a new value of 16. Pears went up four to a value of 20 points.

All dry varieties of beans, including baked, pork and beans, kidney beans and soaked dry beans, and peas, were reduced 4 points a pound with the new value set at 6 points. Soy beans decreased 2 points.

Shell beans, beets, corn, spinach, greens and tomatoes were decreased two points.

Point value of No. 2 cans of corn, tomatoes and mixed vegetables were set at 8 points; beets at 2 points, beans 6 points, except green or wax, which were made ration free in January and remain so.

To stimulate movement of large jars (two pounds) of jams, preserves and marmalades, except citrus marmalades, points were cut 14 to 12. One-pound jars remained at 8. Pure grape jams were cut from 8 to 4 points per pound, and from 14 points to 6 points for the two-pound size. Citrus fruit marmalades remained ration free.

Husky 8th Air Force Begins Its 3d Year

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States Eighth Air Force is two years old today.

The outfit, which started with 155 men, has dropped 46,840 tons of bombs on enemy Europe and destroyed 4446 German planes. It can now send 700 bombers into the air from British bases on any day the weather permits.

SOLDIER DAD WRITES POEM TO BABY SON

All the way from the South Pacific it came winging—though Edmund Hannon, Jr., will have to be a little older than his two years before understanding its significance:

So read the poem written to little Edmund from the far-off place by the father who has seen him only once—and that when the boy was but eight months old.

Sergt. Edmund Hannon

Sergt. Edmund, who enlisted in the Army in 1941, has been overseas, mainly in the South Pacific, for 16 months.

Until he returns, his wife and son, together with the sergeant's unmusical cocker spaniel, "Blackie," are living with Mrs. Hannon's mother in Meridian st., East Boston.

MRS. EDMUND HANNON
Mate Writes Son Poem

Little Edmund was born shortly after Pearl Harbor, while his dad was still training in the States. But not long after the boy received the single visit from his father, Sergt. Hannon had to push off with his outfit and hasn't been back since.

Way back there, the sergeant thought he might be back for Edmund's second birthday at least, but the war has continued too long for that. And now the father has shifted his hope to next year.

He wants to see Blackie, too. Blackie used to sit beside the piano at home while Hannon played—and Blackie howled.

Birthday Ball Tonight Will Be Gala Affair

With a varied program featuring everything from judo exhibitions and a jitterbug contest to performances by top flight stars of stage and screen, tonight's 11th annual President's Birthday Ball at Boston Garden is expected to be a sellout event, the committee announced today.

The ball, held to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis, will feature Screen Stars Alan Marshall and Frances Dee and Bandmaster Jimmy Dorsey as headline attractions of a thrill-packed entertainment schedule arranged by Chairman Denis W. Delaney and his ball committee.

Distinguished guests will include Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and State Ball Chairman John J. Hagerty.

Following a band concert and drum and bugle corp exhibition starting at 7:15, the formal program starts at 8:20 when a detachment of Marines will demonstrate the art of judo and show how enemies are disarmed and overpowered in actual combat.

The "Victory Variety Show" will feature a number of talented dancers, singers, impersonators, the servicemen's jitterbug contest and music by the Coast Guard Port of Boston Band and the Army Boston Port of Embarkation Band.

All branches of the armed services and members of their auxiliaries will take part in a colorful military pageant in which United Spanish War Veterans, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organizations will also participate.

When the entertainment portion of the program comes to a close shortly after 10 p. m., continuous dancing is scheduled until 1 a. m.

U. S. HANDLING OF LOYALTY PROBE HIT

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—The Civil Service Commission was condemned today by Rep. Wigglesworth (R.) of Massachusetts for its lack of effective investigative work in connection with the loyalty of applicants for federal jobs.

Recent instructions of the commission in prohibiting questioning of applicants regarding Communist connections, a subject on which the Dies committee will hold hearings soon, was cited by Wigglesworth as contrary to the intent of Congress.

He asserted that from July 1, 1940, to Nov. 24, 1943, the commission investigated only about 185,000 of the 5,000,000 persons subject to investigation.

"It is also a fact that little or no investigation has been conducted of overseas personnel," he said. "Only 4 per cent of those investigated, aside from Panama and Pearl Harbor, have been investigated before being placed on the federal payroll. And over one-third of the recommendations of ineligibility in the field of loyalty by commission investigators have been overruled by the commission."

Launching By Telecast

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—General Electric workers who built the propulsion units and other electrical apparatus for the U. S. S. Missouri, the world's most formidable battleship, will witness its launching tomorrow—via television.

Receiving sets are being installed throughout the plant to receive the relayed telecast from Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Kennedy's clearance of men's SUITS and OVERCOATS

This is Kennedy's first clearance of suits and overcoats since a year ago. This is the clearance that all New England looks forward to and waits for. This year because of war time conditions and general merchandise conditions the number of suits and overcoats left for clearance is naturally smaller—but the quality remains the same—size assortments at some price levels are generous—in others they are limited. We do have all sizes from size 39 and up for you to choose from but not in every price group or in every color and pattern. Remember every suit and coat in this clearance is from our own stocks. Every garment sold at much higher prices that in themselves were in line with Kennedy's 50-year-old policy of value giving.

Fulton Lewis Weighs Appeal On $4500 Damages Verdict

Counsel for Fulton Lewis, Jr., is scheduled to decide today whether or not to appeal the verdict of $4500 damages which Louis G. Balsam of Cambridge, former regional OPA official, was awarded by a federal jury in his $100,000 suit against the radio commentator.

Defense Atty. Henry M. Leen was undecided when the verdict was announced after jurors had deliberated 10 hours, but he later conferred with his client and is expected to make a statement today.

The suit resulted from a Lewis broadcast of Jan. 14, 1943, in which the commentator charged Balsam, when serving as dean of men at Reed College in Portland, Ore., attempted to coerce a wholesale grocery firm to supply him personal groceries at wholesale rates under threat of cancelling the grocery's college business.

Balsam, who charged this and other statements made by Lewis resulted in his resignation from OPA, said the verdict made him "very happy."

Night Club Tax Set at 30 P. C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) —Senate-House conferees on the $2,000,000,000-plus tax bill approached their most controversial ground today after approving rises of more than $1,000,000,000 in excise taxes and postal rates.

Stiff wartime "luxury" rates were approved. Here are some samples:

Cabaret and night club checks, 30 per cent in place of the present 5 per cent.

Cosmetics and toilet articles, 25 per cent instead of .5.

Admissions to theaters, ball parks, etc., 1 cent for each 5 cents of charge. The present rate is a cent per dime.

Furs and jewelry, 20 per cent instead of 10. (Silver-plated flatware is excluded from the jewelry tax.)

TENDERONI is a different from ordinary macaroni and spaghetti as is from a loaf of bread because of the egg-white in Tenderoni.

Prompt Returns On Taxes Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Treasury appealed to wage earners today to begin filling out their income tax returns as soon as they receive wage and tax receipts from their employers.

With an estimated 50,000,000 returns expected before the March 15 deadline the department is seeking to avoid the usual last minute rush.

The fact that taxes have been deducted from paychecks does not excuse taxpayers from making March 15 returns.

Axis Echoes

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 28 (AP)—Three cabinet ministers and three lesser officials have resigned because of their opposition to Argentina's diplomatic break with the Axis.

This development came as President Pedro Ramirez was warning Germany and Japan to beware of acts of reprisal, banning all commerce with the Axis, and suspending the newspaper Pampero, major Nazi mouthpiece here.

Kaiser Yard Sets Record

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 28 (AP)—One of the brightest construction records in merchant ship history ends today with the launching of the Peter Moran, last Liberty freighter from Henry J. Kaiser's Oregon Shipbuilding Corp.—322d ship in 32 months.

When the 11-way yard was started in 1941, it was estimated it would take 2½ years to build the yard and deliver 32 ships. Then mass production revolutionized merchant shipbuilding. Original time of 105 days for each ship was cut to 30 days.

The yard now is constructing the faster Victory ship. Three have been launched so far, but the yard does not expect to turn them out any faster than 50 days from keel-laying to delivery.

Oil Ban to Force Spain Off Fence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Spain faced today the necessity of redefining its position toward Germany and the Allies as a result of American suspension of her main oil supplies.

General Francisco Franco's government was said to confront the possibility of profound crisis in Spain's entire economy.

The United States, it was learned on best authority, has stopped scheduled February oil shipments to Spain from the Caribbean area, usually Spain's only source of supply.

The limited amount of oil Spain has been getting from the Caribbean in other ships is so tightly calculated that expert observers said the loss or delay of even one tanker's cargo would have extremely serious results.

Seven to nine tankers were said to be involved in the orders prohibiting planned shipments next month.

For some time the United States and Britain have made representations to Spain on the following requests:

1—Release of a number of Italian vessels from internment in Spanish ports.

2—Thoroughgoing restrictions on activities of Nazi spies and saboteurs, especially on Spanish territory near Gibraltar.

3—Reduction of Spanish exports of vital war materials to Germany.

The combined material effect of the United States move and the psychological effect of Argentina's abandonment of neutrality were expected to force a decision in Spain as to her position during the remainder of the war.

Immediate reason for the drastic United States action against the Achilles heel of Spain's entire economy was said to be conclusion recently of a German-Spanish financial agreement.

Congress Horrified By Atrocity Expose

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (INS)—The story of Japanese murder and torture of American prisoners of war aroused horror in Congress today.

Sen. Warren Austin (R.), of Vermont, co-author of the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill, said:

"It ought to tighten up our own complacency and make us more conscious of the sacrifices being made for us and more willing to do our utmost to shorten the war and prevent further outrages."

Sen. Wallace H. White, acting Republican leader, exclaimed: "It will bring grief and resentment to everybody in America."

"The story is so horrible that I did not have the heart to read it through," said Sen. Ed. Johnson (D.) of Colorado. "I sincerely hope it will not be the springboard for racial uprising."

Sen. Burnett Maybank (D.) of South Carolina said the cruelty of the Japanese exceeded any story he had ever read, even in ancient history.

"I don't think words could express my horror at the inhuman and outrageous treatment of brave American and Filipino soldiers who were subject to every cruelty known to man," Maybank declared.

Expected Russia To Rebuff U. S.

MOSCOW, Jan. 27 (delayed) (AP)—Foreign diplomats in Moscow, convinced the Russians are not going to do business with the present Polish government in London, expressed no surprise today that a United States offer to mediate the Polish question has been turned down here.

It seems apparent now that Polish-Russian relations will remain as they are until sweeping changes are made in the Poles' governmental setup.

Failure of the Russians to accept the United States offer came as a deep personal disappointment to U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

All Leningrad Joins Wildest Celebration

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Jan. 28 (AP)—The people of Liberated Leningrad rolled out of bed and went to factories today, tired but happy and still thinking of last night's wild joy of singing and dancing in streets olluminated by brilliant flares and rockets.

Those in the city had not seen a spark of light by night—except that from bursting shells and bombs and burning homes—for 27 months. Last night the guns were theirs, the noise theirs, and the firing theirs.

Exactly at 8 p. m., the first gun was fired. Altogether, 24 salvoes from 324 guns marked the full liberation of the former capital, proclaimed yesterday.

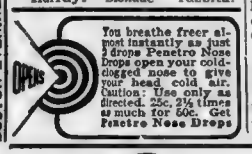
"Hurray! Blokade razbita!" Shouted the thousands who lined the streets.

In English, that is "Hurrah! The blockade is broken!"

This wasn't Leningrad's first victory salute, but last night's was the wildest, most spontaneous outburst of joy and happiness in the city's history.

The guns of this old Czarist capital boomed out in 1709 when troops of Peter the Great defeated the Swedes at Poltava, and they boomed again in 1710 when the Russians occupied Vilpuli, but none of those celebrations could have compared with last night's.

People danced in the streets, radio loudspeakers blared out dance mustic far into the pleasant night, and great crowds swarmed about the Kirov quarter, on Vasiliev islend, and in Fontanna st. around the Isaak Cathedral.



You breathe freer almost instantly as just 2 drops Penetro Nose Drops open your cold-clogged nose to give your head cold air. Caution: Use only as directed. 25c, 2½ times as much for 50c. Get Penetro Nose Drops

JAPS LOSE 16 PLANES OVER MARSHALLS

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 28 (AP)—Strategy seemingly born of desperation drew topflight Japanese fighter pilots into the biggest battle of the mounting United States air offensive against the Marshall islands and cost the enemy 16 to 22 planes.

Not an American plane was lost.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced last night that the big action occurred Wednesday, the 21st consecutive day of attack on the Marshalls by Navy and Army airmen.

The fight grew out of a Seventh Army air force attack on Taroa airfield on Maloelap atoll. Nine Mitchell bombers over the base ran into 20 intercepting Zeros. Eleven, possibly 12, Zeros went down.

The Mitchells, speedy mediums, retired but another group of Zeros pursued. Seventh AAF fighters joined with the bombers in the ensuing fight. Five more enemy ships were shot down for certain, and five were listed as probables.

Boston Flier Killed In Indo-China Crash

Capt. Cleaveland Floyd, Jr., 28, of the Army Air Forces, was killed in a plane crash in Indo-China on Friday, Jan. 21, according to a War Department message received by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Cleaveland Floyd of Marlborough st., Back Bay.

No details of the crash were given. Capt. Floyd was a graduate of Milton Academy and Harvard. He entered the service in June, 1941, and in February, 1942, married Adelaide Louise Risley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leroy Risley of Newton.

Official U.S. Story Of Jap Atrocities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The text of the joint Army-Navy announcement on Japanese atrocities follows:

The factual and official story of how the Japanese tortured, starved to death and sometimes wantonly murdered American and Filipino soldiers who had been taken prisoner on Bataan and Corregidor was jointly released last night by the Army and Navy.

The facts were taken from reports made by Comdr. Melvin H. McCoy, United States Navy, of 3126 Lasalle st., Indianapolis, Ind.; Lieut.-Col. S. M. Mellnik, Coast Artillery Corps, of Dunmore, Pa., and Lieut.-Col. (then captain) William E. Dyess, Air Corps, of Albany, Tex., all of whom escaped from the Philippines after almost a year as Japanese prisoners.

Their sworn statements included no hearsay whatever, but only facts which the officers related from their own personal experience and observations. The statements have been verified from other sources.

After he made his statement to the War Department, Col. Dyess was killed in a crash of his fighter plane at Burbank, Cal., while he was preparing to go back and fight the Japanese who had tortured him. Col. Mellnik is now on duty with Gen. MacArthur, Comdr. McCoy is on duty in this country.

The three officers stated that several times as many American prisoners of war have died, mostly of starvation, forced hard labor, and general brutality, as the Japanese have ever reported. At one prison camp, Camp O'Donnell, about 2200 American prisoners died in April and May, 1942. In the camp at Cabanatuan, about 3000 Americans had died up to the end of October, 1942. Still heavier mortality occurred among the Filipino prisoners of war at Camp O'Donnell.

Others Who Escaped

While this report deals exclusively with the records of Comdr. McCoy, Col. Mellnik and Col. Dyess, other Americans known to have escaped from Japanese prison camps in the Philippines include Maj. Michiel Dobervitch of Ironton, Minn., Maj. Austin C. Shofner of Shelbyville, Tenn., Maj. Jack Hawkins of Roxton, Tex., and Corp. Jack Carlos Chamberlain of El Cajone, Cal., all of the U. S. Marine Corps.

The calculated Japanese campaign of brutality against the battle-spent, hungry American and Filipino soldiers on Bataan began as soon as they surrendered, with what was always thereafter known among its survivors as "the march of death." Comdr. McCoy and Col. Mellnik, who were taken at Corregidor, did not take part in that, but Col. Dyess, who did so, said:

"Though beaten, hungry and tired from the terrible last days of combat on Bataan, though further resistance was hopeless, our American soldiers and their Filipino comrades in arms could not have surrendered had they known the fate in store for them."

"The march of death" began when thousands of prisoners were herded together at Mariveles air field on Bataan at daylight on April 10, 1942, after their surrender. Though some had food, neither Americans nor Filipinos were permitted to eat any of it by their guards. They were searched and then were robbed of personal belongings taken from them. Those who had Japanese tokens or money in their possession were beheaded.

Slapped, Beaten

In groups of 500 to 1000 men, the prisoners were marched along the national road off Bataan toward San Fernando, in Pampanga Province. Those marchers who still had personal belongings were stripped of them: the Japanese slapped and beat them with sticks as they marched along. Without food or water on a scorching hot day, Col. Dyess, in a middle group, gave this description of "the march of death":

"A Japanese soldier took my canteen, gave the water to a horse, and threw the canteen away. We passed a Filipino prisoner of war who had been bayoneted. Men recently killed were lying along the roadside; many had been run over and flattened by Japanese trucks. Many American prisoners were forced to act as porters for military equipment. Such treatment caused the death of a sergeant in my squadron, the 21st Pursuit.

Patients bombed out of a nearby hospital, half dazed and wandering about in pajamas and slippers, were thrown into our marching column of prisoners. What their fate was I do not know. At 10 o'clock that night we were forced to retrace our march of two hours, for no apparent reason.

"At midnight we were crowded into an enclosure too narrow to lie down. An officer asked permission to get water and a Japanese guard beat him with a rifle butt. Finally a Japanese officer permitted us to drink water from a nearby carabao wallow.

"Before daylight the next morning, the 11th, we were awakened and marched down the road. Japanese trucks speeded by. A Japanese soldier swung his rifle from one of them in passing and knocked an American prisoner unconscious beside the road.

Never Produced Food

"Through the dust clouds and blistering heat we marched that entire day without food. We were allowed to drink dirty water from a roadside stream at noon. Sometime later three officers were taken from our marching column, thrown into an automobile and driven off. I never learned what became of them. Others were arrived at any of the prison camps.

"Our guards repeatedly promised us food, but never produced it. Then at dusk of the 11th we again were searched and then the march resumed. Totally done in, American and Filipino prisoners fell out frequently, and threw themselves moaning beside the roadside. The stronger were not permitted to help the weaker, and then would hear shots behind us.

"At 3 o'clock on the morning of April 12 they shoved us into a barbed-wire bullpen big enough to accommodate 200. We were 1200 inside the pen — no room to lie down — human filth and maggots were everywhere.

"Throughout the 12th we were introduced to the tortures of thirst, which came to be known as the sun treatment. We were made to sit in the boiling sun all day long without cover. We had very little water; our thirst was intense. Many of us went crazy, and several died. The Japanese guards, too, the sick and delirious. Three Filipino and three American soldiers were buried while still alive.

"On the 13th each of those who survived was given a mess kit of rice. We were given another full day of the sun treatment. At nightfall we were forced to resume our march. We marched without water until dawn of the 14, with one two-hour interval when we were permitted to sit beside the roadside.

"The very pace of our march itself was a torture. Sometimes we had to go very fast, with the Japanese pacing us on bicycles. At other times we were forced to shuffle along very slowly. The muscles of my legs began to draw, and each step was an agony.

Filipinos Try to Help

Filipino civilians tried to help both Filipino and American soldiers by tossing us food and cigarettes from the window or from behind houses. Those who were caught were beaten. The Japanese had food stores along the roadside. A United States Army colonel pointed to some of the cans of salmon and asked for food for his men. A Japanese officer picked up a can and hit the colonel in the face with it, cutting his cheek wide open. Another colonel and a brave Filipino picked up three American soldiers who had collapsed before the Japs could get to them. They placed them on a cart and started down the road toward San Fernando. The Japanese seized them as well as the soldiers, who were in a coma, and horse-whipped them fiercely.

"Along the road in the province of Pampanga there are many wells. Half-crazed with thirst, six Filipino soldiers made a dash for one of the wells. All six were killed. As we passed Lubao we marched by a Filipino soldier gutted and hanging over a barbed-wire fence. Late that night of the 14th we were jammed into another bull pen at San Fernando with again no room to lie down. During the night Japanese soldiers with fixed bayonets charged into the compound to terrorize the prisoners.

12 Days With No Food

"Before daylight on April 15 we were marched out and 115 of us were packed into a small narrow-gauge box car. The doors were closed and locked. Movement was impossible. Many of the prisoners were suffering from diarrhea and dysentery. The heat and stench were unbearable. We had been ordered if we would get out of the box car alive. At Capiz Tarlac we were taken off and given the sun treatment for three hours. Then we were marched to Camp O'Donnell, a prison camp under construction, surrounded with barbed wire and high towers, with separate fenced compounds of wire. On the last leg of the journey the Japanese permitted the stronger to carry the weaker.

"I made that march of about 85 miles in six days on one mess kit of rice. Other Americans made the march of death in 12 days, without any food whatever. Much of the time, of course, they were given the sun treatment along the way."

The prisoners taken at Corregidor, among whom were Comdr. McCoy and Col. Mellnik, had no experience quite equal to the death march. But after the surrender, the 7000 Americans and 5000 Filipinos were concentrated in a former balloon station known as the Kindley field garage area—by that time only a few huts. A concrete about 100 yards to the side, with one side extending into the water on the bay. The 12,000 prisoners, including all the wounded who were able to walk, were kept on that concrete floor without food for a week.

There was only one water spigot for the 12,000 men and a 12-hour water cut in all, a condition was the usual rule. After seven days the men received their first rations—one mess kit of rice and a can of sardines.

The Corregidor prisoners were forced to march through Manila on May 2, 1942, having previously been forced to jump out of the barges which brought them over from the island while they were still a hundred yards from the beach. Thus," said Col. Mellnik, "we were marched through Manila presenting the worst appearance possible—wet, bedraggled, hungry, thirsty and many so weak from illness they could hardly stand." Comdr. McCoy added, however, that the Japanese purpose of making this triumphal victory parade was frustrated by the friendliness of Filipino civilians.

"All during the march through Manila," said Comdr. McCoy, "the heat was terrific. The weaker ones to our group, including myself, were cuffed back into line and made to march until they dropped. If no guards were in the immediate vicinity, the Filipinos along the route tried to revive the prisoners with ices, water and fruit. These Filipinos were severely beaten if caught by the guards."

Without Rights

Col. Dyess' sworn statement declared that the Japanese officer commanding Camp O'Donnell, where the survivors of the Bataan death march were imprisoned, delivered a speech to the American and Filipino soldiers telling them that they were not prisoners of war and would not be treated as such, but were captives without rights of privileges.

There were virtually no water facilities at Camp O'Donnell. Prisoners stood in line for six to 10 hours to get a drink. They were the same clothing without change for a month and a half. Col. Dyess waited 35 days for his first bath, and then had one gallon of water for it.

The principal food at Camp O'Donnell was rice. The prisoners received meat twice in two months, and then not enough to give as many as a quarter of them a piece an inch square.

A few times the prisoners had comotles, an inferior type of sweet potato. Many were rotten and had to be thrown away. Prisoners themselves had to post guards to prevent the starving from eating the rotten potatoes. The intermittent ration of potato was one spoonful per man. Once or twice the prisoners received a few mangoes beans, a type of cow pea, a little flour to make a paste gravy for the rice, and a spoonful each of coconut lard. Col. Dyess' diet for the entire 361 days he was a prisoner of the Japanese, with the exception of some American and British Red Cross food he received, was a sort of watery juice with a little paste and rice.

Some Japanese operated a black market and sold those prisoners who had money a small can of fish for $5.

After the prisoners had been at Camp O'Donnell for one week, the death rate was 20 a day, American and Filipino soldiers 150 a day. After two weeks the death rate had increased to 50 a day among Americans and 500 a day among Filipinos. To find room enough to dig graves was a problem. Shallow trenches were dug to hold 5 bodies each.

"The actual conditions I find impossible to describe," Col. Dyes statement reads. "It is impossible from a description to visualize how horrible they really were."

"Called a Hospital"

One dilapidated building was set aside and called a hospital. But there was no equipment of a hospital floor without covering of any kind. There was no medicine of any kind. The doctors had not even water to wash their hands in. Among conditions. Some afflicted with dysentery remained out in the weather at the latrines until they died.

Men shrank from 200 pounds to 90. They had no buttocks. They were human skeletons.

"It was not a deliberate starvation," Col. Dyess' statement read. "It was difficult to look at a man lying still and determine whether he was dead or alive."

The Japanese promised medicines, but never produced them. Once the Japanese allowed the Red Cross at Manila to bring in quinine. How much, the prisoners never found out. The Japanese did not issue enough to cure 10 cases of malaria, and there were thousands.

Sick Forced to Work

The sick as well as those merely starving were forced into labor details by the Japanese. Many times men did not return from work. By May 1, 1942, only about 20 out of every company of 200 were able to go on work details. Many died in the barracks overnight. Frequently, for no apparent reason the prisoners were forced to line up and stand in the sun for hours.

Around June 1, the American prisoners at Camp O'Donnell were separated from their Filipino comrades in arms and moved to Cabanatuan concentration camp in Luzon. There Col. Dyess joins Col. Mellnik and Comdr. McCoy.

Sometimes at Cabanatuan we had quate drinking water and muddy wells provided water for bathing. Japanese brutality continued, however.

"I had been at Cabanatuan one day," Col. Dyess' statement reads, "when a Jap came through the barracks looting. He found a watch hidden in some equipment of a man not present. As I was sitting near by he punched me severely to show his authority. The idea of a prisoner still having a watch."

Rice remained the principal diet at Cabanatuan. On one occasion the Japanese gave the American prisoners three chickens for 500 men, and another time 50 eggs for 500 men. As a result their propaganda later told the world that American prisoners in Philippines were being fed on chickens and eggs.

Worked to Death

Officers were not forced to work at Cabanatuan, but could volunteer to take out work details. Col. Dyess so volunteered.

"The Japs frequently mistreated Americans working for them," his statement reads. "Once when a frail American private was not digging a ditch to suit his guard, the guard grabbed the shovel from him and beat him across the back with it. The boy had to be sent to the hospital. One Jap carried a golf club and beat the men working for him the way one wouldn't beat a horse. When two Americans were caught getting food from a Filipino, they were beaten unmercifully on the face and body. After a Japanese dressed their wounds, the Japs took sticks and beat them again."

Men were literally worked to death. It was not unusual for 20 per cent of a work detail to be worked to death. In one instance, 75 per cent were killed that way.

Comdr. McCoy reported that two American Army officers and a Navy officer attempted to escape from Cabanatuan, which was thickly ringed with barbed wire, and had machine-gun emplacements and towers outside the wire. The officers were caught moving down a drain ditch to get under the wire.

Their Japanese captors beat them with fists and clubs and kept them standing at attention for 24 hours. Then they were forced to dig their own graves, and were executed by beheading.

Filipino soldiers who escaped were executed in the same manner.

The No. 1 Enemy Of Civilization

Japan is the monstrous, savage, ruthless, rugged, fanatic enemy of the United States.

The fate of the United States rests on the outcome of the battle against Japan.

The fate of the world rests on the outcome of our battle against Japan.

All civilized nations should be allied in the war against her.

The proof of it is printed on these pages—the official Army-Navy report of Japanese atrocities committed against American and Filipino prisoners of war. British prisoners of war have likewise been tortured and murdered.

Never doubt that the cruelties here brought officially to light have been multiplied a thousand times behind the scenes.

Never doubt that they will be multiplied a million times if we fail in the war against Japan.

We must beat Germany, certainly.

We must annihilate Japan.

Prisoners Humiliated

The Japanese made every effort to humiliate their prisoners of war. They would force them to stand and call them vile names. When one older American colonel turned away from a Japanese reviling him, he was knocked unconscious with a blackjack. American flags were habitually and designedly used as rags in the Japanese kitchens.

The death rate at Cabanatuan for June and July, 1942, was 30 Americans a day, according to the sworn statements of the three officers. The rate for August, 1942, was more than 20 a day. The rate for September, 15, because at that time most of the weaker men were already dead. During October, 1942, the rate ranged upward from 16 a day to 19 a day and was increasing when Col. Dyess, Col. Mellnik and Comdr. McCoy left Cabanatuan on Oct. 26, 1942. These three officers and 966 other American officers and enlisted men had been crowded into the hold of a 1000-ton British built freighter at Manila for shipment to Davao on the island of Mindanao, with stops at Cebu and Iloilo.

The voyage took 11 days. The hold was filthy and vermin-infested. Some prisoners were lucky enough to get a place on the junkfilled, rain-swept deck. Two men died on the trip. On Nov. 7, 1942, the Americans were unloaded at Lasang Landing Center near Davao penal colony. The sun treatment for two hours followed, and then the group was forced to march more than 15 miles to the penal colony. Many were so weakened they fell by the roadside. In this instance, Japanese picked them up, threw them into trucks, and carried them along.

"Walking Corpses"

It developed that the Japanese commanding officer at the penal colony, which in peace times had been operated for criminals by the Philippine Government, was greatly disturbed when he saw the condition of the Americans. He had requested able-bodied laborers. Instead, he shouted, he had been sent walking corpses.

In spite of the condition of the prisoners, they received without exception but to hard labor—chaplains, officers, and enlisted men alike. Col. Dyess, barefooted for a month and a half, was forced to clear jungle and plow every day. Starving Col. Dyess' pay, as a prisoner of war, he received $10 in pay from the Japanese. To get the $10 he was forced to sign a statement that he had received more than $250, with clothes, food, and lodging. No clothes were issued until August, and Red Cross supplies began to arrive at Davao, in every case, Col. Dyess' diary describes as "the salvation of the American prisoners of war."

Food was only slightly better at Davao. In addition to rice, the prisoners received once a day a small portion of mango beans, and some camotes, green papayas, casavas, or cooking bananas. However, most of the prisoners already were suffering from beri beri and the food was not sufficient to prevent the disease from progressing. Although oranges and lemons were abundant in the vicinity, the Japanese would not allow the prisoners to have them. The brutality of Japanese officers continued. One lieutenant habitually beat prisoners. According to the Japanese code of honor, this lieutenant had done most of his fighting at the rear when in action, and had been assigned to prison duty as a punishment. He avenged himself on the prisoners.

Commandant's Talk

The camp commandant made a speech to the prisoners shortly after their arrival.

"You have been used to a soft, easy life since your capture," he said. "All that will be different here. You will learn about hard labor. Every prisoner will continue to work until he is actually hospitalized. Punishment for malingering will be severe."

These orders were rigidly enforced. When Col. Dyess, Col. Mellnik and Comdr. McCoy escaped in April, 1943, only 1100 of the 2000 prisoners were able to work.

The arrival of two Red Cross boxes for each prisoner early in 1943 caused joy beyond description among the prisoners, according to the statements of the three officers. The boxes contained chocolate bars, cheese, tinned meats and sardines, cigarettes, a portion each of tea, cocoa, pepper and sugar. Most important of all, quinine and sulfa drugs were included.

The Red Cross supplies had been received aboard a diplomatic ship in Japan in June, 1942. The prisoners never learned why it took them seven months to reach Davao.

A few days before Comdr. McCoy, Col. Mellnik, Col. Dyess escaped from Davao on April 4, 1943, one of the American prisoners, a hospital orderly, was wantonly murdered by a Japanese sentry.

The orderly was digging comotes, Col. Mellnik reported, outside the hospital stockade and directly under a watch tower. It was an extremely hot day. He called to a fellow prisoner to toss him a canteen from the stockade. As the orderly was about to drink from the canteen, the Japanese sentry on the tower shouted at him angrily.

To show that the canteen contained only water, the orderly took it from mouth and poured a little on the ground. Apparently because he did this, the sentry trained his rifle on him and fired. The bullet entered at the neck and shoulder and came out at the hip.

The orderly cried out: "Don't shoot me again!"

The sentry fired two more bullets into the's body. He then emptied his clip at the man inside the hospital stockade, who ran for his life and was not hit.

Jap Feast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Japanese propaganda broadcasts telling of American prisoners being fed on chicken and eggs were explained by the War and Navy Departments tonight—"on one occasion the Japanese gave the American prisoners three chickens for 500 men, and another time 50 eggs for 500 men."

and tell of the agony they endured were Comdr. Melvyn H. McCoy, USN, of Indianapolis, Lieut.-Col. S. M. Mellnik, Coast Artillery Corps, of Dunmore, Pa., and Lieut.-Col. William E. Dyess, Air Corps, of Albany, Tex.

Dyess is dead—killed in a fighter plane crash at Burbank, Cal., recently while preparing to return to duty in the Pacific. Mellnik is with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific. McCoy is on duty in the United States.

Their sworn statements included no hearsay whatever, but only facts which the officers related from their own personal experience and observations," said the official report.

"The three officers stated that several times as many American prisoners of war have died, mostly of starvation, forced hard labor, and general brutality, as the Japanese have ever reported.

"At one prison camp, Camp O'Donnell, about 2200 American prisoners died in April and May, 1942. In the camp at Cabanatuan, about 3000 Americans had died up to the end of October, 1942. Still heavier mortality occurred among the Filipino prisoners of war at Camp O'Donnell."

Eden charged that Japanese authorities had dictated postcards and letters received from prisoners giving the impression they were in good health and well treated.

"The information which has just reached the government no longer leaves any room for doubt that the true state of affairs is a different one so far as the great majority of prisoners in Japanese hands are concerned," he said.

MANY DEATHS

Referring to the "many thousands" of British prisoners held in Thailand alone, he said:

"Our information is that their health is rapidly deteriorating. That a high percentage of them are seriously ill, and that there have been several thousand deaths. The number of such deaths reported by the Japanese to us is over 100."

"Conditions in Hongkong appear to be growing worse," Eden continued. "The whole story would appear to be very bad indeed, but I have worse to come. We have a growing list of cases of brutal outrage on individuals, or groups of individuals."

"I cannot burden the House with full details of these, but in order to give some idea of their nature I must, I fear, quote one or two typical examples."

Eden cited the case of a Shanghai police officer who was interned with 300 other Allied nationals in Haiphong.

"He incurred the displeasure of the Japanese gendarmerie and was taken to their prison in another part of town. When he emerged from the building he was practically out of his mind. His arms and feet were bloodied where ropes had left deep scars and he had lost 40 pounds weight. He died within a day or two of his release."

The second case concerned three British subjects who escaped from a Japanese internment camp in the Philippines Feb. 11, 1942.

"They were recaptured and flogged by the camp guard," Eden said. "Two days later they were sentenced to death by a military court in spite of the fact that international law prescribes imposition of only disciplinary punishment for attempts to escape.

"The firing party used automatic pistols and three of the men were not hit straight off."

He said the hands of a number of Indian soldiers captured in Burma had been tied behind their backs and then the men had been systematically bayonetted from behind—each receiving three bayonet thrusts.

In another case a British officer taken a prisoner in Burma was clubbed across the face with a sword, then tied to a stake with a rope around his neck, so that only by lunging up on tiptoes could he get enough air to live. The officer was saved when the Allies attacked and the Japanese fled.

America Must Help Save Persecuted Jews

"WE REGARD THIS WHITE PAPER AND THE POLICY IN IT AS A CYNICAL BREACH OF PLEDGES GIVEN TO THE JEWS AND THE WORLD, INCLUDING AMERICA."—Herbert Morrison, Secretary of State for Home Affairs and Minister of Home Defense, in a speech in the House of Commons in May, 1939, when the Chamberlain White Paper, which closes Palestine to the Jews on March 31, 1944, was under discussion.

MARCH 31 is approaching and nothing officially has been done by the British Government to alleviate the condition of the Jews in Europe or repudiate the treacherous White Paper of five years ago.

Nothing is being done, either, in Congress about the Gillette-Baldwin-Rogers Resolution, which provides for the establishment by the President of a commission, in conjunction with the other United Nations, specifically to rescue the Jews from their slavery under Nazi rule, particularly in Poland.

There are millions of Jews over whom the same ghastly fate at present hovers as overtook 3,000,000 of their brethren at the hands of the Nazi monsters.

Non-sectarian and Jewish organizations, in conjunction with the Hearst press, have pleaded for months for action on the part of our government and England to save the Jews of Europe by aiding them to emigrate to Palestine (which must be kept open), to Cyprus, North Africa and other adjacent lands where they may breathe the air of liberty.

It is true that President Roosevelt has just set up a "War Refugee Board," with unspecified powers, consisting of the Secretaries of State, Treasury and War, to act "immediately" in some indefinite manner to rescue from the Nazis as many of the "persecuted minorities" as is possible.

In his statement the President said:

"It is the policy of this Government to take all measures within its power to rescue the victims of enemy oppression who are in imminent danger of death, and otherwise to afford such victims all possible relief and assistance CONSISTENT WITH THE SUCCESSFUL PROSECUTION OF THE WAR."

WHILE THIS is no doubt a well-intentioned move, it is altogether too vague and too general.

It does not specifically mention the Jews who are the one outstanding "minority group" whose condition and fate have terrified and horified the civilized world irrespective of creed, color or race.

The President's board, which is not related at all to the Gillette-Baldwin-Rogers Resolution, does not tell us that it will act in conjunction with our Allies, who have an equal responsibility in the matter or rescuing the Jews in Europe.

It does not mention the fact that England WILL CLOSE PALESTINE TO THE JEWS ON MARCH 31.

Nor does it ask our British ally to work with us on this great human problem.

Also, why is not Soviet Russia, with her PROFESSED tolerance of all creeds and races, active in providing a homeland for Jewish refugees?

As Germany would not have attacked Poland in September, 1939, if Russia had not given Hitler the green light, it seems to us that RUSSIA IS PARTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE AGONIES OF POLAND'S JEWRY.

The President's "Refugee Board" is not enough.

CONGRESS SHOULD TAKE THE GILLETTE-BALDWIN-ROGERS RESOLUTION FOR JEWISH RELIEF IN EUROPE OUT OF COMMITTEE AND PASS IT IMMEDIATELY.

TO THIS RESOLUTION SHOULD BE ATTACHED AN AMENDMENT CALLING ON ENGLAND TO RESCIND THE "WHITE PAPER" OF 1939 AND TO THROW OPEN THE GATES OF PALESTINE TO THE JEWS INDEFINITELY. THERE SHOULD ALSO BE AN AMENDMENT NOTIFYING STALIN THAT HE WILL BE EXPECTED TO DO HIS SHARE IN HELPING THE JEWS OUT OF THE PLIGHT WHICH HIS "PACT" WITH HITLER HELPED TO BRING UPON THEM.

Congressional action is required now.

More Bond Sales Needed

MASSACHUSETTS residents have invested more than $42,000,000 in War Bonds since the Fourth Loan Campaign began.

This is a large sum of money, but it is not large enough. Our State quota is $258,000,000. In order to reach it we must sell bonds totaling $216,000,000 MORE.

Every man and woman who has a job should try to buy at least one $100 bond.

Persons with large incomes, particularly persons employed in defense industries at higher wages than they have received in years, should plan to do much more.

The money that goes into War Bonds will be returned with interest on specified dates. But the time our fighting sons are spending on battlefields, the blood they are shedding and the lives they are losing can never be returned.

AS TO the "secret weapon" on which the Nazis base their hopes, it is the expected solution of the uranium problem. German scientists have been working on this night and day for several years. A matchbox full of uranium could blow a battleship a mile high. The longer war continues the greater the danger uranium will be used for destruction rather for the constructive uses it could be put to in times of peace. Of course, United States scientists are also working on the uranium problem. Here's hoping our side solves this problem first!

SIDELIGHTS: Statisticians state a single man is 40 per cent more likely to die before 60, nine times more susceptible to mental disease and 95 per cent more likely to meet with a fatal accident than a married man. This item is printed upon the request of the young women of the We Wanna Get Married Club of Pittsburgh, Pa. . . . Just heard a prominent band leader's "arrangement" of one of my favorite songs, "Stormy Weather." That is, I heard half of it and could listen to no more. There should be a law against band leaders making a mess of a beautiful song with a screwy, noisy, complicated arrangement.

PROUD MAMA: Mrs. Thomas Kappen, professionally known as Betty Compton, has just become an unusually proud mother. Mrs. Kappen has been married four times and this is her first blessed event. Unusual as this is, it is not the record. I know a charming resident of Beverly Hills, Cal., who had no children until her fifth marriage.

SAYS SHE: "What is much needed is a society for the improvement of the breed of husbands," writes Daphne Drake. "So a group of wives in Detroit has decided to start a local chapter. Generally speaking, the country's husbands are too careless of their appearance, especially as to girth. Nine out of 10 husbands of 40 or over have what is known as 'a corporation' but do nothing about it. If a man carries himself properly, head up, shoulders squared, etc., does not make a glutton of himself at lunch, takes some setting up exercise and does a little rolling around the floor he will not look so much like a kewpie. It is very difficult for a woman to feel romantic about a man who is in any way flabby."

"Just remember, if you get blown to bits, don't come running to me for sympathy!"

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What does the E. V. in your name stand for? What would you call a girl named after her father whose name is Thomas? (1) Edgar Vincent. (2) Thomasine or Thomasina. Q—Who was the greatest Negro fighter of all time, Jack Johnson or Joe Louis? A—Both Jack and Joe deserve high ratings but the greatest Negro fighter was Peter Jackson, after him Joe Gans. Q—What was the story by Wilbur Daniel Steele you said would make a great film. A—"The Shame Dance." Could be made into a marvelous musical melodrama. I shouldn't give these ideas away. I once gave a fellow an idea for a radio program that has been running 10 years as a coast to coast broadcast and he never even thanked me.

WAR BRIDES: Sixteen thousand of the Canadian soldiers who went overseas for this war have married English girls. Nine thousand children have resulted from these marriages. Haven't the figures on the marriages to foreign girls of the AEF. However, I will look into it. May prove very interesting. You recall the jest current at the start of the war. "What have those Australian girls got that we haven't?" A New York girl wrote to her soldier friend in Sydney, Australia. He replied: "Nothing; but they have it here."

MALE VS. FEMALE: "That women are smarter than men is indicated by the fact the girls at grammar school are always far in advance of the boys in their studies," writes a feminine subscriber of Manhattan. What the lady says about the girls being smarter in grammar school is true but doesn't prove the female is the smarter sex. Between the ages of 10 and 13 boys develop slowly while in that period girls develop rapidly. Between 14 and 17 the boys speed up and the girls slow down. We shall discuss this matter more fully some time later in the semester.

SIDELIGHTS: "So cigar smokers don't smoke in bed," writes a Boston subscriber. "That's what you think. I have been married to the same man for 16 years and have never seen him go to bed without a cigar." That surprises me. First case of its kind I ever heard of . . . The Green Bay Packers' professional football team averaged 68 plays a game. Now what we want to find out is how many plays a game do college teams average. Then we can judge how much faster professional football is than college football. I haven't checked, but I doubt the college teams average more than 45 plays a game.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "My son started singing and reciting poetry at age of two," states a proud Brooklyn pappy. "Now at the age of two years and four months he sings the Marine Hymn, Pape's Doll and Pistol Packin' Mamma and recites the Pledge of Allegiance" . . . Frank Sinatra says he picks the songs he sings strictly by the lyrics, paying little or no attention to the tune. Smart fellow. In songs about love the words are about four times as important as the tune.

LITTLE MEN: "Why Be Short?" is the title of a book by Paul O'Neil, who is himself six feet two inches tall. This book gives advice on how men can make themselves taller. I don't think short men should worry about their height as much as they do. It develops an inferiority complex. I doubt that Pvt. Billy Miller of Peoria, Ill., has ever worried much about his height. Billy who is five feet five inches tall, is, as you will remember, that soldier who single handed captured 19 Germans in Italy.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28—Not for months and months will David Selznick permit a rival producer to borrow Ingrid Bergman. For David is announcing his most ambitious role for her—"Bergman as Bernhardt."

Yes, I mean Sarah Bernhardt, and unless David has a change of mind the title of the movie will be just that. There was a time when I might have thought the calm Scandinavian star might be too placid for the life story of the tempestuous Sarah, but I'll never say that again. I saw some rushes with Ingrid in "Saratoga Trunk" and she is sensational.

I'll say for David that once he makes up his mind, he gets the ball rolling with a rush. Ben Hecht is already at work on the screen play and William Dieterle will direct. "Bergman as Bernhardt" is scheduled to start between the first and fifteenth of March.

HERE IT comes folks—the umpteenth revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," this time sponsored by all the glitter that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Arthur Hornblow and technicolor can give it.

Hornblow has not only dusted off the hardy perenial but has it practically cast, with Margaret O'Brien as Little Eva, Lena Horne as Eliza and Lewis Stone as Sinclair. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been done so many times as a musical or with comedy trimmings that it is almost news to report that the M-G-M version will be filmed just as Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote the book that helped set off the Civil War.

There's a hot rumor that Paul Robeson will play Uncle Tom, or at least be offered the role, in spite of the fact he would sing nary a note. Robeson would be wonderful, for he is as good an actor as he is a singer.

IRVING CUMMINGS did such a good job megaphoning "What a Woman!" with Roz Russell and Brian Aherne that he stays at Columbia to guide "The Impatient Years." This yarn by Virginia Van Upp is a romantic drama about a young couple who become involved with a Charles Coburnish character, which is one of the best reasons why C. Coburn himself will play the part. In all the pre-Academy Award talk that has been floating around, seems like the handicappers have been forgetting my boy friend in "The More the Merrier." He should certainly be among the candidates for "best supporting" performances.

IS SOMEBODY KIDDING about Anne Jeffreys, who gets the second feminine role in the new Frank Sinatra opus at RKO, never having heard Frankie sing? Where has she been—at the North Pole with no radio? Be that as it may, the lady is boasting that she has never heard Frank give out with "People Will Say We're in Love," or even "Pistol Packin' Mama," although her part calls for her to chase the swooner-crooner like mad all through the script. Wait until the bobby socks brigade learn about Annie—the heretic.

A LINE OR TWO: Gratifying to get so much mail from old friends. Rose Berwin, whose English tea room I mentioned in my book, writes to say she is in her 30th year and still serving the same people. Thyra Samter Winslow, who started with me at the Chicago Tribune, goes back to the days when we were paid by space. Thyra didn't have to make her articles long—she wrote so many,

FRANK SINATRA

Film Fan Never Heard Him

But I certainly padded mine. Barrett Keisling writes in a reminiscent mood of when he was C. B. De Mille's representative. "I was introduced to you as a secretary," he said, "because Henry McMahon, who was handling C. B.'s 'The Ten Commandments,' thought you might not want to lunch with a press agent." Dear, Dear! Was there ever a time when I was that important? . . . Charles Skouras took time out to telephone me from New York, where he is doing a grand job as head of the motion picture division of the Fourth War Loan drive. They have sold more than in any previous drive. I made a date to see him in New York and talk over a few bond-selling ideas . . . I am taking with me on the train Niven Busch's "Duel in the Sun," which he sent me with a personal inscription, and H. W. Roden's "You Only Hang Once." I have read part of Niven's book and I know I am going to love it.

GUESS IT was bound to happen—a stooge for a stooge—which means that my lad Charlie McCarthy is going to have a wooden dummy on his own knee in "Song of the Open Road." Charlie has gleefully named his stooge "Charlie McCarthy Jr.," and except for the fact that the new dummy is considerably smaller, he is a replica of the original. Edgar Bergen has worked out a new voice which will sound as if Charlie is the ventriloquist throwing his voice into Charlie, Jr., in a sort of double talk. And if you ask me, there's a trick that is a trick.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Rumor is that Helen O'Hara, Henry Clive's beautiful daughter, will marry Sergt. Maurice Kelly on his first "leave"; ran into Lana Turner just before I left Hollywood and she says she will sing "Honeysuckle Rose" in "Marriage Is a Private Affair"; because of that serious automobile accident Hal Walker will finish directing "Road to Utopia" in a wheelchair; once more Zorina is having trouble about shearing her locks. Director of her stage show, "Shadow Dance," wants her hair cut. Can't blame her for refusing after the bad luck she had when she cut her tresses for "For Whom the Bell Tolls"; Warners are testing Beatrice Joy Gilbert II for a stock contract; Bonita Granville and Al Mannheimer at a table for two at the Beverly Tropics; Joan Bennett and Walter Wanger heading East next week, plan to return in time for a stop-over in Arizona to celebrate her daughter Diana's birthday; Greer Garson and Edgar Bergen dining together at the Derby after a radio rehearsal. Edgar had Greer in stitches with the antics of a little dummy he whipped up with a table napkin; Lieut. (jg) Bob Stack visiting Deanna Durbin on the set of "Christmas Holiday"; if Steve Crane doesn't get that M-G-M contract he'll try his hand at radio; Clarence Brown has something new under the sun—a portable office on the set. Now I'll bet all directors will want one; I'm off for the East for a few weeks, so that's all today. See you tomorrow!

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1944

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Thursday—On Tuesday noon I left New York City for Utica, N. Y. There I visited one of our military hospitals and spent some time talking to a number of boys, veterans of this war.

At 11:30 Tuesday night I left Utica for Detroit, Mich., arriving there early Wednesday morning. I started out at once with my sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Roosevelt, on a day which took us to various war plans, child-care centers, a luncheon and finally a short rest and family dinner during which I saw my nieces before going to an inter-racial evening meeting. I took the night train to Louisville.

ON THIS TRIP I have been forcibly reminded of a letter which came to me a few days ago and which some of you may enjoy as I did. A much harassed woman who has evidently felt in the past that she must more or less follow the styles of the year, wrote me a wail saying that skirts are narrower and not as comfortable, that if only there could be a slogan which said: "Be patriotic, wear your old clothes," one could wear last year's dress and get around more easily, if somewhat less stylishly.

I want to remind her that the most expensive dressmakers, both in Paris in the old days and in New York city today, make dresses for the individual, and sometimes they have no relation to what might be called the style as you see it in shop windows, or on pretty little youthful misses tripping down the street. During most of this journey I have worn a dress that is well made, but I think it is nearly three years old. I felt quite comfortable and as much in the fashion as an old lady like myself need ever be!

Gretchen Merrill to Defend Title

By BETTY ALDEN

GRETCHEN MERRILL, Boston's pride and joy in the figure skating world and a debutante of this season, will soon give up her studies at the University of California and return to the land of snow (?) and ice to brush up on her figures for the national championships in March. She will defend her title as National Figure Skating Queen. She and her mother, Mrs. Van Zandt Merrill of Chestnut Hill, have been in California all winter.

Gretchen Merrill

March is also the first birthday of the Gretchen Merrill orchid which was named for the glamorous blonde star at last spring's flower show and will soon be coaxed into full bloom for the 1944 show at Horticultural Hall.

The flower show, being staged by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, will be held March 18-25 and already a large group of society's garden club enthusiasts are hard at work on plans for transforming the hall into a mass of beautiful bloom.

★ ★ ★

MRS. SHAW McKEAN, a famous garden enthusiast who raises rare and exotic blooms in her private greenhouse at Prides Crossing, turned her thoughts to plans for the proper blending of colorful flowers for summer nooks and crannies as she sauntered along Arlington st. in yesterday's spring-like sunshine. She was dressed for spring, too, in a navy sheer wool with touches of scarlet at neck and wrists, a tricky navy templet on her dark hair and a silver fox jacket thrown over her arm.

★ ★ ★

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE PINGREE of Weston and their post-deb daughter Eleanor, are leaving tonight for a couple of weeks of winter sports at the Lake Placid Club. She was trying to persuade Grace "Bo" Eddy to go, too, as they lunched at the Ritz.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES TOPPAN, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Prouty and Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Pratt are among Beantown theater lovers looking forward to the next Theater Guild play, Monday at the Plymouth, because it will be the first Boston appearance of Annabella in "Jacobowsky and the Colonel."

Parmenter st. cafe. And Pvt. James C. Muir of 272 Walker st., Lowell, who worked under Charley Winter at the Acme foundry, and married Emma Young last October. And Pvt. Albert Mansfield Basler of 15 Woodman st., Jamaica Plain, who trucked for W. L. Mead. And Staff Sergt. Harold E. Wandover of Railroad ave. extension, who drove for a cake company and wants to say "howdy" to Aunt Mary Morgan and Uncle Charley.

And Pvt. Florent Horion of 545 Rimmen st., Manchester, who was a "sole rounder" for International Shoe and is a bazooka gunner now. And Pfc. John J. Gallege of 30 Talbot st., Taunton, whose older brothers, Manuel and Jerome, still run the family oil business. These and others typify the good, artisan heart of our armies, and a poll of its behavior.

Relieved to Know Us

Actually, before these troops settled hereabouts the people were startled to learn that U. S. soldiers, with a smart scattering of Sicilian campaigners, were going to be quartered in their towns. These English, within their little purlieus, had only the foggiest notion of what the mass behavior of Americans might be. They were worried—and they admit it! Their only impressions were based on Hollywood's distorted versions of gangsterisms and hoodlumships.

But from the testimony I have taken in shops, pubs and streets from casual townsmen, consensus is that the soldiers are acceptable as permanent citizens, though the English think them nothing short of maniacs with money, and sometimes cavalier with the ladies.

"Oh! They are quite discreet," observed one English woman, which I imagine is femininity's highest accolade.

Many of the troopers have been guests at English homes to mutual liking by both sides. And among them are Pvt. Nunzio D. Masone of 40 Summer st., Somerville, a serious, olive-complexioned lad, who is a friend of Nemo Fucile of the Boston Sunday Advertiser sport staff. And Pvt. Guy P. Malgiolio of 10 Emmet st., South Boston, who once played "drums" for his own dance orchestra which played its last prewar music to the Italian-American Citizens' Club at the Hotel Bradford. He sends a filial salute to Papa Paul and Mother Conttea (Concheta).

Not Wild Indians

Also, Pfc. Harry N. Chakeutis of 49 Wyman st., Lynn, whose favorite memory is Fitzgerald's Federal Cafe. And Pvt. Chester J. McMann of 294 Purchase st., Milford, who belonged to the 1940 state championship coupling crew (Hose 4) under Ray Morey.

By now the early apprehensions about "red Indians" and "Wild West" habits of the Americans have become a warm acceptance which is not, in any sense, a "tolerance." The English and the Americans find mutual amusement in each other's ways, which should do more for postwar amity than any presidential proclamation. To be sure, newcoming G. I.'s sometimes need their rough edges filed off and the veterans are pretty quick to flatten a brash recruit's ears to the proper social angle.

One common characteristic I notice among these men, particularly the campaign veterans—an almost total absence of pessimism for the future, and an almost concerted opinion that the end is just around the corner. So they profess! Perhaps it is a defense mechanism, for they confess that they were convinced last spring that they'd see 1943 Christmas at home. Now, the majority, many who may lead the assault on the mainland, make it July 4, or Labor Day at the latest.

My notebook poll on this topic includes these who took such a rosy slant: Pvt. Clarence L. Bellrose of Pond st., RFD-2, Framingham, who worked for Ashland Chemical under Bernard Cousins, and thinks pleasantly of beer in the Waverly Tap. And Corp. Joseph A. P. Gagnon of 6 Raymond rd., Salem, who hails a distant "hallo" to Art Dumas, the bartender of Palmer's Cove Yacht Club. And Corp. John R. Watson of 42 Harvard st., Waltham, says the best of his last batch of letters was from his mother, Katherine.

I can assure you that the motherhood of America has never been so prominently in mind as with their oversea sons. Thus another man with a mother Katherine is Pvt. John T. Harton, Jr., of 77 Evans st., Medford, who fairly drools for one of her fresh apple pies. And Pvt. Joe A. Grandmaison, who lives with his aunt, Edith Tetreau, at 144 Franklin st., Lawrence, and liked to schottische at the French Social Club.

As I talked to this group in the company "union," each in his turn, all stayed to drink in the little testimonies of their later fellows, and volunteer good natured information.

What do you guys miss most? I asked. And, knowing that such nouns as "Home" and "Discharge" were now an empty futility, they agreed that they'd like some whole milk, fresh from the cow, instead of the tasteless, dehydrated powder, or the condensed syrup. So, conversely, they said they enjoyed most the fresh butter (once a day, five times a week), after a long diet of wind and imagination in Sicily.

"Gee, that's the ticket!" said Corp. Joe H. Harris, Jr., of 6 Chapin st., Winchester, who married Helen Carson two years ago, and says Hy-yuh to "Dave" of the Town Line Cafe. That gives you a general idea.

Eighth Youth Center Opens

The eighth public school recreational center jointly sponsored by the Massachusetts Youth Committee and Boston school officials opens tonight in the Michelangelo Intermediate School, Charter st., North End.

Asst. Supt. of Schools Dennis C. Haley will call the meeting to order and introduce School Committeeman Joseph C. White as permanent chairman.

Headmaster Francis O. Wood and Center Mgr. John A. Scanga, aided by James T. Mulroy, director of night school centers, have arranged an attractive program. Invited guests include local clergymen.

A Student Committee of three boys and three girls will report the types of recreation desired by their classmates. The committee is made up of Phyllis Lorina, Marie DeMarco, Beatrice Pedone, Geno Gregorio, Nicholas Nicosia and Robert Aquilino. Phyllis Lorina will speak for the girls and Geno Gregorio for the boys.

WEAPON SHOW TO BE STAGED IN ARMORY

The most elaborate and realistic exhibit of war weapons and equipment, as well as devices for the protection of America's fighting men, to be staged in Boston since Pearl Harbor, will open next week at the First Corps Cadets Armory to add extra incentive to the Fourth War Loan drive.

Demonstrations of deadly German booby traps and how these explosives are "neutralized" will feature the exhibit, to be called the Invasion Show and open to any purchaser of a 25-cent war stamp.

The Invasion Show will be held Feb. 5, 6 and 7, affording the Boston public a first hand view not only of the perils facing U. S. invasion forces, but also the ingenious devices—made possible by War Bond purchases—that save soldiers' lives.

Everything from a compact, pocket-size walkie-talkie radio to a barrage balloon will be on display. Much attention will be centered on the bazooka, or rocket gun. A liaison airplane, 12-man life rafts, and aerial bombs are other objects to be shown.

The three-day show, sponsored by the Security Dealers of Massachusetts, will be open from noon until 10 p. m. each day at the armory, located at Columbus ave. and Arlington st., in the rear of the Hotel Statler. The various exhibits are being arranged by the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Corps and Merchant Marine.

Although the Fourth War Loan is one-third over from the point of time elapsed in the campaign, war bond purchases amount to only $41,000,000 or 16.1 per cent of the $258,000,000 goal for individual purchases.

Chairman F. W. Denio of the statewide drive urged men, women and children not to delay in buying bonds, so that daily sales may be boosted to the $10,000,000 average needed to make the campaign a success.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that sluggish kidneys may be caused, in some cases, by excessive acids within the body.

As a dietary aid in the faster neutralization of these excessive acids—which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief to this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT and present it with $1.95 at any Nature Food Centres Store to get your Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets. Take them as directed on the label and if they do not bring soothing relief to your aching joints and muscles faster than any other electric aid you have ever used, THE TRIAL IS FREE! Just return the bottle and get your money back. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets cost only a few cents a day to use. 250 Tablet Bottles—$1.95 (500 Tablet Economy Size $3.75). Mail orders sent postpaid. They are sold only at

Join a Mighty Army!

Give your dollars to help those who are giving their lives to insure your future happiness and security

IN the vanguard of the Fourth War Loan Home Front Army is the Treasury Insurance Legion, ready to help you help your country. The T.I.L. includes more than 20,000 insurance men and women of Massachusetts who are contributing thousands of hours of their own time to insure the success of the Fourth War Loan Drive. The insurance companies have already invested millions of dollars in War Bonds. Now, clerks, agents, and executives of all the insurance companies are working side by side, giving their individual efforts to this great cause. They are organized in their own communities, under the direction of local chairmen. One of the T.I.L. representatives will contact you to make it easy to buy that EXTRA BOND during the drive. Each bond you buy through a T.I.L. representative will be credited to your local community.

The Treasury Insurance Legion of Massachusetts has pledged its effort to sell 20 million dollars worth of War Bonds. The goal set for the Fourth War Loan Drive must be attained to assure victory both abroad and at home, to give our military forces the equipment they need overseas and to stifle the threat of inflation here. The T.I.L. will do its share and make its quota with your help. The members are striving to do this because they realize that the more dollars collected, the more days may be lopped off the war's duration and the more lives saved. Your dollars are needed! See your local T.I.L. representative and BUY YOUR SHARE OF VICTORY TODAY!

DORSEY BAND IN NEW HITS

Jimmy Dorsey and his band, opening yesterday at the RKO-Boston, after an absence of a year or so, were . . . and are . . . as welcome as yesterday's mellow weather.

Jimmy Dorsey

Even without those two standouts, Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberle, and wartime demands, the Dorsey musical outfit maintains its top-drawing standards.

It is a slick orchestra, handsomely presented in patriotic red, white and blue. Most effective in a program distinguished for its exceptional arrangements and musical quality is the "Holiday for Strings" number, with saxophones replacing the customary violins. This is easily the hit offering on the bill.

Another hit was registered by Paul Curley, a likable young baritone who has stepped into the Eberle spot rather shyly but with every reason to build in confidence. He has a fine voice and a persuasive personality.

Peg Leg Bates, long celebrated as the world's greatest monoped dancer, is an established favorite at this house and needs no praise from this source. Whether he imitates a bomber or warbles his happy-go-lucky philosophy . . . and a wonderful morale builder it has been to the servicemen in the hospitals . . . the response is noisily enthusiastic.—P. D.

Naval Battle on Screen

Action shots showing how the Nazi ship, Scharhorst, met doom are now being shown on the Telepix screen.

'Seabees' Thrilling War Film

By PEGGY DOYLE

With the release of "The Fighting Seabees," Republic's punchy, actionful lowdown on the Navy's gutsy, go-getting base-men, the Marines and Superman are in for some stiff competition in the hero-worshipping sweepstakes.

The picture is a lulu, boasting some battle shots near the finish that are the best you've seen in months of picture-going. The performances, notably those of stars John Wayne, Susan Hayward and Dennis O'Keefe, are excellent throughout. The same cannot be said for the story, which requires Miss Hayward, war-correspondent, to take her typewriter and a smart civilian wardrobe into the most perilous of war zones. Fancy that, Inez Robb!

Naval officers, who gandered the picture at a recent screening, generously excused this poetic license on the writers' part on the grounds that the box office must be served romantically. About the rest of the picture they were heartily enthusiastic, pointing out that it is an unusually accurate record of the Navy's youngest branch.

In the film, Wayne, a construction genius, and O'Keefe, a naval officer, are credited with bringing the Seabees into existence. Meeting his men at New York harbor, Wayne learns that, as civilian workers they have been required to work unarmed, they had taken a terrific beating at the hands of the Japs on a Pacific island.

He barks out his rage at O'Keefe, the commanding officer who is reporting back to Washington. O'Keefe convinces him that together they can make high navy officials see the necessity of creating construction battalions.

They do with the flame-haired, pretty Miss Hayward kibitzing, the while she discovers to her consternation that a girl can love two men at the same time. This off-again, on-again, Finnigan stuff finally finds the loving but doubleing O'Keefe as her prospective altar-partner.

MEET HIM FOR LUNCH in this grey wool suit with smooth shoulders and cut with a defined waistline. Note the new turtle neck blouse, a decidedly new feature of spring. The two-tone effect, subtle in detail . . . and intriguing in design . . . gives classic smartness to this tailored but feminine outfit. Columbia Star Rosalind Russell wears this new outfit in her new picture. R. M.

Night Care for Hands

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IF YOU'VE ever experienced the pang of reluctance in removing your gloves . . . and having to apologize for your hands . . . you, for one, know the true meaning of having lovely hands. It really takes such little time . . . and, is no trouble at all . . . to keep them smooth, soft and feminine.

It is just a case of becoming hand-conscious . . . and, taking care of them as diligently . . . and as seriously . . . as you do your face, hair and clothes. If I seem to be a little firm about this hand business . . . pardon me . . . but I DO appreciate their importance . . . and fully realize what confidence they can instill in your entire personality . . . and, want you to become so concerned about their beauty that you will never, ever again neglect them.

It costs so little to give luxurious pampering to your hands . . . to make them leisure-looking and regal . . . if you but follow a few simple rules. And, for the effort expanded your hands and fingers will look and feel wonderful.

In this business of achieving beauty . . . a woman can't cater to her face and hair and neglect her hands and clothes . . . Every little part of the complete regimen adds up to the sum total of beauty . . . and, not one single component part can be overlooked.

We brush our hair . . . cream our face . . . pay special attention to our eyes . . . but, somehow, we expect our hands to take care of themselves . . . despite that the charming and graceful expression of femininity can be indicated in the delicate and touching sweep of a hand.

CREAM FOR NIGHT USE

When you've finished your nightly hair routine, think kindly of your hands. Remember, that they, too, need the caressing touch of cream to soften and nourish them. Especially prepared for such a hand treatment is a hand night cream to be used as a massage.

Stroke from the wrist out to the fingertips . . . and you'll find that this nightly massage will help to shape broad hands and taper fingers. Devote a few minutes every night and you'll be well rewarded in the end.

If you read before you turn off the night-table lamp, wear gloves . . . to protect the pages of the book. And wearing gloves while you sleep is a splendid beauty aid in keeping the cream well-soaked into the hands to do for them what a night cream does for the face.

With this little attention, your hands will be among the best, and you'll never be ashamed to exhibit them publicly any place or at any time.

For the name of this new hand cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the weekend, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT IS INCALCULABLE how much soft hands and well manicured nails contribute to a well-groomed appearance. You need only to look around at the hands of your friends to appreciate the value of the beautiful hand. Warner Bros. Star Lynne Baggett has enviably, lovely hands.

He Stays Out 'Til Morning

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I've been married four years. The first year was wonderful, my husband was so considerate of me, and we were happy. Without any reason he started drinking and staying out nights, each night a little later, until now it's five and six o'clock in the morning when he comes home.

He says there's no one else, but where in a small town could a man spend so much time? I know he gambles and goodness knows what else. I can't stand it much longer. I've considered getting a job, but what would happen to my little child? She's almost 3 years old. My mother doesn't believe any of these things when I complain to her.

It is plain to me that my husband doesn't care any more. We never go places together; he finds an excuse. What do you think is the best thing to do? V. C.

If your mother will agree to take care of your child, a job might be the solution of your problem. Or if there is a good day nursery in your town where you'd feel satisfied the baby would be getting the best care, that might work out equally well. I can't understand your mother's attitude. Certainly a man who stays out until morning, leaves his wife with plenty of grounds wondering what her next move must be.

Lilac Popular Spring Color

By BETTINA BEDWELL

MAYBE all the flowers are still buried deep in snow and frost, but in fashions it's lilac time. This fresh and springlike color is one I see a lot in spring styles, and it is being used to make very young clothes.

Lilac is not considered to be either an old or a super-sophisticated color by the fashion makers this year.

Alice Orovan, clever custom designer, makes the model in our sketch of lilac silk crepe. It is very young, and has the bishop sleeves that are the biggest sleeve style of the season. The cuffs of these sleeves are fastened with purple crystal buttons having gold rims. Twin pockets are set high on the fitted waist, and there is a soft bow at the neckline.

Beans in 30 Mins.

By MARTHA LEE

BAKED BEANS in only thirty minutes! That's the time-saving, fuel-saving treat New England homemakers may now enjoy, with the introduction of the new pre-cooked beans into this bean-loving section of the country.

Gone is the over-night soaking; gone, the long hours of cooking. For these beans are pre-cooked and all you have to do is to put them in the oven, fixing them as you would if you were following your own favorite recipe. And in just half an hour they are ready to serve to the family in all the richness of their flavor, the fullness of their goodness and nourishment.

Pre-cooked beans come in a gay red-and-brown package, making 22 ounces, which give you four generous servings. On each package you will find the simple, easy directions for preparing this delectable dish, and different recipes that will help give variety to baked bean feasts.

BAKED BEANS, NEW ENGLAND STYLE

2 large slices bacon, or
2 ounces sliced salt pork
2 cups water
1 6-oz. pkg. pre-cooked beans
2 to 4 tbsp. molasses or brown sugar (depending on sweetness desired)
½ tsp. salt Pinch of pepper
½ tsp. dry mustard

Fry bacon or salt pork (not too crisp) in pan large enough to accommodate all of the above ingredients. Remove bacon (or pork). Place water, beans, molasses (or brown sugar), salt, pepper and mustard with bacon drippings in pan and let come to boil. Boil slowly 10 minutes, covered, on top of stove. Then pour into baking dish, place bacon on top, bake 15 minutes with lid on in a very hot oven (450 deg. F.). Remove lid and bake another 5 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Note: For drier beans, bake 5 to 10 minutes longer with lid off. If you prefer a meatless dish, omit bacon or salt pork.

BAKED BEANS WITH TOMATO SAUCE

To make tomato sauce beans, use recipe above—adding 3 or 4 tbsp. catsup. At the end of the 10-minute boil, add catsup desired and mix well before transferring to baking dish. If larger quantity of beans is desired, double ingredients in recipe and use two 6-ounce packages of pre-cooked beans.

BAKED BEAN AND FRANKFURT CASSEROLE

1 6-oz. pkg. pre-cooked beans (cooked)
1 cup chopped cold frankfurters
4 or 5 slices bacon
Tomato catsup

Place a layer of baked beans in a casserole and cover with a layer of meat. Repeat until there are three layers of beans and two layers of meat. Over top layer of beans pour a generous amount of catsup, and lay strips of bacon over top of catsup. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) for about 15 minutes, or until beans and meat are heated through and the bacon is a golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

BAKED BEANS AND PORK CHOPS

3 to 4 cooked pork chops, or
1½ cups cooked pork, diced
1 to 2 cups baked beans
1 tbsp. brown sugar
½ cup catsup

Place pork in casserole; mix sugar and catsup with beans, and place on pork and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 20 minutes or so. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

GREEN PEPPERS STUFFED WITH BAKED BEANS

Mix baked beans with tomato catsup which has been thinned a little with boiling water. Remove seeds and sections from green peppers. Parboil, stuff with baked beans and place in a pan with a little hot water in the bottom. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) until peppers are soft.

Tallulah Bankhead, the country siren, vacationing from her Connecticut farmhouse at Harrington and Hyers' upholstered madhouse, the 51 Club . . . Annabella, at 21, displaying a huge compact with Tyrone Power's picture on the cover . . . Roland Young fingering through the pages of a novel at the counter of a neighborhood lending library.

TIMES SQUARE CUFF NOTES: Pat DeCicco is reported "out of danger." He had a bad time of it . . . There's an Italian ship in an east coast harbor with a story that will make the front pages . . . You can bet that Dave Wolper's forthcoming musical, "Follow the Girls," will be done according to ceiling prices. One of its backers is Lawrence Nusbaum, the OPA official . . . That Maori woman who rubbed noses with Mrs. Roosevelt really gets around in the best circles. A national magazine has a photo—which it won't use—showing her rubbing noses with Lieut.-Commr. Gene Tunney . . . Carmen Cavallero and Carlos Molino, the bandleaders will soon be involved in a copyright tiff . . . Naval officers at the Henry Hudson Hotel who spend a great deal of time waiting for their friends in the lobby have named it Hubby Lobby.

FACES IN PLACES: Jean Mourain, chanteuse at Paris Qui Chante, who has the biggest, roundest and Frenchiest eyes in town . . . George Abbott, back from a rest in Cuba, catching up with the latest in rumbas with Ann Lano at La Conga . . . Mary Pickford, a distraction for the chorines at "Early to Bed" . . . Laraine Day, at the Latin Quarter, passing up the giggle-water for a glass of milk . . . Cliff Edwards, the comic—the saddest-looking fellow in the Cub Room . . . Ruth Gordon giving Max Gordon (no kin) an affectionate kiss in the foyer of the Ruban Bleu . . . Greta Garbo, still wearing bandages under the sheerest of silk stockings, braving that stronghold of glamour, the Colony.

THE RAYMOND MASSEYS being baffled by Jack Spooner's card magic at the Stork Club . . . Paul Whiteman completely surrounded by song pluggers—or vice versa—during the luncheon session at Lindy's . . . Sergt. Zeke Manners, of "Winged Victory," being feted by his fan club members—who all wear cowboy regalia . . . Soignee Marlene Dietrich, who causes the lads to swoon-yay . . . Charlie Barnet, the indifferent-to-fame bandleader, bolting his breakfast at Jack Dempsey's eatery en route to the Strand stage door . . . Fay Wray wearing—of all things!—a sensible hat . . . Sergt. Barney Ross signing a fan's autograph book in the Delmonico lobby.

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28—Producer Darryl Zanuck likes to hold a polo mallet during a story conference. When a point in a story gets exciting, Darryl swings the mallet, sometimes striking himself.

Joan Bennett

At every story conference, a lady, Molly Mandeville, sits in. She takes notes in shorthand. There may be four or five people in the conference: the writers, the director, the producer. It is generally Zanuck who does the talking. Regardless of who does the talking, Miss Mandeville takes down every word.

The next morning every person who was at the conference receives a brief scenario, which is a typewritten account telling him what was said during the long discussions. Often they are surprised at the things they said. Zanuck likes to walk while he is dictating a story. His large office is not big enough for him. When he gets going on a good story, he walks right out of his office.

Producer Walter Wanger, the husband of Joan Bennett, is very calm during a story conference. Wanger produced "Arabian Nights" and "Ali Baba." During a story conference, he will sit for hours with his writer until they lick the story. During a long conference a writer was heard to say: "Look at him, sitting here when he could be home with Joan Bennett."

* * *

WESLEY RUGGLES—his biggest picture was "Cimarron," he recently completed "See Here, Private Hargrove"—is a fine director who grew up with the business. He started as an actor in comedies, played in the early Charlie Chaplin pictures, usually the role of a policeman.

On the set he generally seems angry, but isn't. While directing, if a scene really is being played badly, he turns his back to the players and lets them finish it. He never makes them stop, but he claims they can't make him watch.

As the day grows longer, Ruggles' trousers get higher and higher. He wears fancy woolen socks, no garters. He keeps pulling the trousers up and up, and about quitting time the cuffs of his trousers are up to his knees.

Wesley Ruggles was once married to Arline Judge. A few months after they were separated he had a role in a picture that he thought Miss Judge could play. He said to his assistant: "Have Arline Judge over here tomorrow. Tell her to wear a pair of shorts. I want to look at her legs and see if they're suitable for this role."

* * *

SAMUEL HOFFENSTEIN, who wrote "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing," is now at work on another scenario for Deanna Durbin. Hoffenstein is the most brilliant conversationalist in the country. He is great to have at a dinner table, when he gets going.

He is one man who refused to see Garbo. He worked on the screenplay of "Conquest," and was asked to go to the set to write a scene. He answered that he doesn't like to meet actors or actresses, especially when he has to write their very words for them.

One of his producers recently said to him: "How could you give up writing poetry for this hash?" Hoffie answered: "Have you ever received a royalty check on a book of poetry?"

Boston After Dark

A WORD FOR THE "FOUR-F'S": As good a place as most to get the pulse of the public is the so-called Rialto . . . In the glitter-spots of Boston (and other big cities too) many a scene of gayety, of gladness and of heartbreak is enacted while, we might say, the band plays on! . . . And there is quite a quantity of heartbreak mixed up in the general picture . . . This department has found a place in its figurative heart for the thousands upon thousands of young men, most of them single who have been classified by their draft boards as "4-F." . . . We are speaking of those who have been so classified because of physical unfitness, disregarding the small percentage which won that rating because of criminal records.

CONSIDER THESE FIGURES: As of November 30, 1942, the number of 4-F men in the continental United States was 2,206,115, and of that number 64,447 were residents of Massachusetts . . . (In percentages, this means that 8.4 per cent of all men in the continental U. S. are classified 4-F, and 7.7 are residents of Massachusetts) . . . On the basis of these figures, it is fair to estimate that on January 1, 1944, the continental United States includes 3,000,000 "4-F's" and that Massachusetts has as many as 100,000.

THIS WOULD SEEM TO REPRESENT a huge pool of manpower that could be adapted to service-in-uniform . . . Any of us who have seen some sound-looking youngster, with a physical defect not apparent, sitting in a group of his chums who are wearing uniform, may have observed how the young man who is not in uniform "takes" it . . . It's no fun for most of them, although human nature would not be the constant factor it is unless there were thousands who were happy that they have avoided the draft.

MOST OF these 4-F kids, it is safe to say, are unhappy at their lot . . . Some of them even now are thinking of years to come when they'll dread the question: "Why weren't you in the last war, daddy?" . . . This column, which is not what the trade calls a "think column," occasionally comes to bat with a suggestion that should appeal to orderly minds . . . Today's suggestion is this: Why not allow these young men who are ready, willing and everything but "able" for combat service to go into the uniformed services? . . . Why can't many of these kids who are in class 4-F through no fault of their own give of their talents and training in those branches of the armed forces where 100 per cent physical condition is not essential?

THE INSPIRATION OF THIS suggestion is the now-admitted difficulty of enrolling women in sufficient numbers in the various auxiliary services . . . The public knows quite generally now that recruiting drives for the WACS, WAVES and SPARS have been more intensive than successful . . . Yet it is emphasized that there is an urgent and immediate need of thousands of these young women to release able-bodied men for combat service . . . Naturally, no reflection is intended on the patriotism of the womanhood of the U. S. A. . . . Many girls who wished to join the WACS, the WAVES or the SPARS have been dissuaded by their fathers, brothers, husbands and sweethearts . . . Somehow, and it may be the tradition of America, there seems to be an aversion, in many households, to see womenfolk in uniform (their own, at any rate).

WE SUGGEST: Let the 4-F men have a chance to do the official Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard chores which their sisters and sweethearts have not yet responded numerously enough to handle . . . And put them in uniform!

Beau Jack 6-5 Choice To Beat Angott Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Sammy Angott, N. B. A. lightweight champion, will try to pin back the ears of Beau Jack, New York Aathletic Commission's lightweight king, when they battle in a 10-round bout before 17,000 fans in the Garden tonight. In view of the fact it is a meeting of the rival lightweight boxers, it would appear only logical that the winner should be recognized as the undisputed title holder. The fans will consider it that way, but the boxing solons, by some weird reasoning, have decided that Beau Jack's championship is not at stake.

Sammy Angott

Angott is a fast, clever boxer and knows all of the tricks of the game. His backers feel he will be able to outsmart Beau Jack.

Beau Jack has produced a pot of gold for Mike Jacobs and the New York Garden who cut the fistic profits down the middle. If tonight's crowd comes up to expectations and the gate hits around $80,000 with an $11 top, Beau Jack will have drawn $700,000 in nine matches.

★ ★ ★

Heavy Betting

Beau Jack's share of the fistic spoils has already amounted to $185,000. His share of tonight's receipts will bring his total purse from his Garden bouts past the $200,000 mark.

Bill Corum put it well recently when he said that in a period when there are more fight customers than ever there are fewer first class ring men. This is why boxers like Angott and Beau Jack who show a little ring class do so well financially.

There is considerable betting on tonight's bout with Beau Jack ruling a 6 to 5 favorite.

Beau Jack didn't look very impressive in his recent Garden bout which was against Lulu Costantino. He was fortunate to get the decision.

Stengel's Resignation

Casey Stengel's resignation as manager of the Braves was not a surprise to the fans. This writer was among those who declared that Stengel was out as pilot of the Braves once the deal went through by which the management of the club went to a group of Boston men.

It was natural that the new owners would wish to name their own manager. Casey's record with the Braves was not a good one, and even though he was handicapped by the lack of cash in the club's treasury and by the draft he was obliged to take the blame for the team's repeated failures.

It is unlikely that the Braves will be able to get anywhere in the National League race until after the war. They lack suitable players and it is impossible for them to get them at this time. The Braves will have to do their building in postwar days.

Silver Skates Derby

The Silver Skates Derby, which will be held at the Boston Garden Sunday afternoon, once more presents one of the greatest ice carnivals of the season. Director Ben Levias has received more than 450 entries in the speed skating events alone. Included in the list are midgets with only a limited amount of skating experience and finished stars.

The skating exhibitions are headed by the program of the talented Mary Jane Yeo, protege of Sonja Henie who has been appearing at the New Yorker. I am informed that Miss Yeo ranks with the other great stars who have shown in previous Silver Skates Derby.

Jane Weiss of Walpole, who will give an exhibition, is today competing in the eastern championships at Lake Placid, N. Y. This talented youngster has taken part in the Silver Skates Derby for the past three years.

There are other exhibitions and comedy acts. The price scale places the show within the reach of all. It starts at 1:30 p. m. Sunday. Don't miss it!

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mgr. Charley Grimm of the Milwaukee Brewers was named executive vice-president of the American Ass'n Champions.

Olympics at Peak For Garden Tests

Tommy Brennan's return from the Bruins, Andy Mader's return from Brooklyn and Clarence Schmidt's return from the hospital strengthens Hago Harrington's Olympics to such an extent that the locals will be able to ice a third line for the first time in over a month when the 'Pics meet the Brooklyn Crescents and the Philadelphia Falcons, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Garden.

Garden Roundup

Andy Holland, 170, New York, outpointed Johnny Jones, 168, Revere, in the opening 10-rounder. Jones, a last-minute sub for Johnny Seaman, put up a great battle.

Francis Leonard, 129½, Taunton, and Pat Demers, 133, Brockton, a pair of natural rivals, fought 10 rounds to a draw in a fast and furious battle. Leonard came with a rush in the last two rounds and forced the fighting all the way, but the decision was well received by the crowd.

Bill Weinberg, Chelsea heavyweight, won an eighth round technical k. o. victory over the veteran Gunnar Barlund in the last of the tens. Barlund had a bad cut over his right eye and Referee McDonald stopped the fight which was all Weinberg up to that point.

Wild Scramble Opens As Stengel Quits B's

By BILL GRIMES

Now that Casey Stengel has resigned as manager of the Braves there'll be a free for all battle, with no holds barred, for the vacated berth.

A week ago today, Louis Perini, C. Joseph Maney and Guido Rugo, Greater Boston contractors, purchased the controlling interests in the Braves by buying up the stock owned by Joe Conway, Francis Ouimet, Max C. Meyer, J. W. Powdrell and Dr. William Wrang. Yesterday the new owners agreed to take over the stock owned by Casey Stengel, who had invested a substantial amount of his own money in the club.

Today, the Braves do not owe a penny to anyone and, by anyone, I mean, the National League, the Gaffney estate or C. F. Adams. And, moreover, the club has a six figure bank balance, which will be doubled in the event that Pres. Bob Quinn sends out an SOS for more working capital.

On his way East from his home in Glendale, Cal. "Ole Case" tendered his resignation, in order that there be no embarrassment to the new owners.

MAY PULL SURPRISE

Casey Stengel isn't making a trip back East for the sole purpose of attending the annual dinner of the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association. He has something up his sleeve, which, if it develops, will startle the baseball world.

For the first time in the 68 years a National League club has been operating in this city, the Braves have the wherewithal to go out in the open market and bid for players on, at least, even financial terms with any and all clubs in the senior loop.

Since they took over the club, the new owners have compiled a list of baseball men, whom they rate as eligible successors to "Ole Case." Pres. Bob Quinn has that roster and within a day or two he'll hit the road and see if he can do any business.

During the 50 years he has been connected with the national pastime, Bob Quinn has been handed some tough assignments but none can be compared with this one. In the first place, if there is anyone of his list, who is under contract, Quinn must receive permission from the club that owns the prospective candidate to make advances before he can state his proposition. Judge Landis cracks down hard on any magnate who tampers with players under contract. Then, too, Bob Quinn has been around baseball long enough to realize that star ball players do not necessarily make successful managers in a major league.

DIFFERENT STORY NOW

In peacetimes, some clubs didn't hesitate to give a player, who was on his way out, an opportunity to improve himself, when said player was offered an opportunity to manage. But, with the manpower shortage, it's a different story.

Until the Braves announce the successor to Casey Stengel, Pres. Bob Quinn, Louis Perini, C. Joseph Maney and Guido Rugo will be the recipients of tons of information on why so-and-so should get the job.

Although Bob Quinn will interview numerous candidates in the next 10 days, it is very doubtful if there'll be any announcement forthcoming until the National League meeting in New York.

During the six years he managed the Braves, Casey Stengel convinced the experts and fans, who possessed open minds, that he knows more baseball than any mentor in the game. But, without troubling themselves to consider the tools Ole Case had to work with, the "wolves" began to snap at him and, because his clubs finished in the second division, they finally got him.

What the anti-Stengel group didn't realize and still refuse to believe is that Casey was one of the largest stockholders in the club. And he was always ready and willing to invest more money in the Braves. It was a few disgruntled ball players working through susceptable scribes who were responsible for Casey Stengel resigning as the Braves' manager.

Brooks for Casey?

BROOKLYN, Jan. 28—Casey Stengel will be the next general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, buying the club as a partner with Max Meyer, Brooklyn jeweler, and other unnamed sportsmen, it was reported here today.

Stengel yesterday resigned as manager of the Braves and sold his stock holdings in the club. Today he was headed for New York from his West Coast home. Meyer was Stengel's chief backer among stockholders who have just sold their interests in the Braves.

The other day Meyer was quoted in New York papers as stating definitely that he plans to buy a club "near home" and since his home is in Brooklyn that can only mean the Dodgers. Meyer did state definitely that the club he is interested in is in the National League which eliminates the Yankees, which are for sale. The Dodgers are known to be for sale by the Ebbets heirs.

7852 Fight Fans Near Riot As Zannelli Gets Split Award

By HUCK FINNEGAN

You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

Abe Lincoln's sage remark is as true today as it was in the 1860's. That was apparent after witnessing the riotous demonstration staged by 7852 fans who protested the decision given Ralph Zannelli over Izzy Jannazzo at the Garden.

Referee of the sizzling 10-round bout staged by the Goodwin A. C. was Ed McDonald of Brockton. Judges were Jim Shaughnessy and Billy McMenimen.

This spectator thought Jannazzo won in a walk. So did Referee McDonald. So did everyone in the Garden, it seemed, except a small handful interested in Zannelli's future and Judges Shaughnessy and McMenimem.

Here's the story: Jannazzo, 149, enters ring wearing patch over right eye. Zannelli, 149½, looks fit as a fiddle. After three uneventful rounds, Jannazzo looks tired. "Zannelli hits too hard for him," is the consensus.

ZANNELLI BLEEDS

In the fourth, the Brooklyn boy comes to life. He jabs Zannelli 10 times without reply to open the stanza, repeats the trick two minutes later. Yet Zannelli is strong enough to force the issue in the last 20 seconds.

"Keep sticking him," are the instructions from Jannazzo's corner in the fifth. Izzy obeys.

In the sixth, Jannazzo's jabs cut the bridge of Zannelli's nose which bleeds profusely. Izzy surprises by tossing in a flock of rights. If he can't hit hard enough to floor Zannelli, at least he can cut him up so his wife won't recognize him. Zannelli, game as a pebble, flashes toward the close of the round.

BULLETIN

Boxing Commrs. Dez. Wadsworth and Sam Smith refused today to make a statement from the boxing commission on last night's Zanelli-Jannazzo fight except that they announced that the decision will stand as the officials made it, giving the verdict to Zanelli.

Seventh round finds Jannazzo scoring so often with jabs that Zannelli goes berserk. He hits him low, and it looks for a while as if the fight will be stopped. Figuring he can coast home, Jannazzo gamely continues. He has Zannelli bleeding so much fans fear fight may be stopped.

Izzy's stronger in eighth and keeps Zannelli off balance continually. Bounces around as if on pogo stick. Hard to hit. All Izzy again in ninth, as he keeps Zannelli bleeding. He and referee also are covered with Z's blood by this time. Izzy keeps lead to final bell.

"Unanimous for Jannazzo" was the ringside consensus. But NO! The judges over-rule McDonald. BEDLAM!

Never in this century has such a demonstration been seen. IN FAVOR OF THE OUT-OF-TOWN FIGHTER AT THAT! The crowd surged down on the ring. They wouldn't let Jannazzo leave. "Stay in there until they change it, Izzy," they shrieked. Izzy was in there fully 10 minutes. Bill Weinberg and Gunnar Barlund tried to start their bout. Fans wouldn't let them. Police had to restore order. Looked as if the crowd was going after the judges.

Jannazzo finally went to his dressing room. The crowd followed him. "Zannelli himself told me I won," said the Brooklyn boy. "I beat him easier than I did in Providence where I got a unanimous decision. Don't hold it against him. He's a good boy."

FANS CARRY IZZY

"Boston decision," moaned Mgr. Chris Dundee. "We've got a fight here with Tippy Larkin Feb. 18 and now I bet Tippy won't go through."

Outside fans paid no attention to the Weinberg-Barlund bout. As Izzy left the dressing room they put him up on their shoulders and carried him into the Garden. Tried to carry him into the ring again but police and Izzy forbade.

"Jannazzo won nine of the 10 rounds," spectators insisted.

Judge Shaughnessy explained that "Jannazzo's flicks didn't count. Zannelli countered splendidly. If he hadn't bled so much there would have been no dispute about the decision."

Boxing never will prosper in this city while such decisions are rendered. Wonder if Sam Smith and Dezzy Wadsworth (boxing commissioners) will do anything about it. Wadsworth, by the way, comes up next Monday for reappointment to the boxing board.

Title Contests Wide Open In Silver Skates Program

Everything is set for the greatest Derby ever! Interest is at an all-time high, a record entry of 450 is set to go, and the talent is the best offered of any in the Silver Skates classic. The program will be at the Garden, Sunday, starting at 1:30 p. m.

The title races will be wide open as there will be no defending champion in any class. This is due to a Derby rule which automatically advances winners to another claass regardless of age. It offers novices a greater opportunity to win.

With that in mind, it is virtually impossible to select pre-meet favorites as almost anything can happen, such as spills, wide turns and close competition. In other words, all have an equal chance to triumph.

HECTIC AFFAIRS

Those who have seen past Derbies know that these speed races are hectic affairs and could alone furnish full afternoon's entertainment, but that is only one chapter of thos colorful event.

Talent is coming from all parts of the country and all are headliners in their branch of the show.

For instance, there is Mary Jane Yeo, a mid-western girl, who thrilled New York audiences as a featured performer in "It Happened On Ice." She will come here to highlight the program. Mary Jane will dazzle the audience with her graceful skating and also do a vocal turn, which some say parallels her skating ability.

SPRINGFIELD ICE BIRDS

Then there are the "Springfield Ice Birds"—Doris Schulbach and Walter Noffke, who have been national senior pairs champions the past two years. This duo are so good that professional promoters have been chasing them everywhere waving lucrative contracts. Aside from the national championship, they hold 12 major titles. Another "name" star is Eddie Scholdan, who is internationally prominent. A past master at figure skating, Eddie is sure to make a great hit with Silver Skates fans.

Here are more to whet your appetite: Patty Sonnekson, Pacific Coast junior champion; and our own youthful champions — Jane Weiss, Sandylee Weille, Elizabeth Conway, Kay Lindstrom and Justin Smith. All these add up to talent plus.

Capt. Thomas F. Casey has assigned Lieut. Harrington B. Wyand, three sergeants and 25 patrolmen to supervise matters; Bill Mullen, head of Boston's recreation setup will again handle the "mike" and have 25 of his aides assisting him in running the program; Dr. W. A. Dafoe and nurses with Mrs. W. A. Dafoe from City Hospital will also be on hand.

There are plenty of seats and room for a big crowd. Be on hand early to see it all as there never will be a dull moment!

English Favorite In 17th NE Meet

Depending on the field of 28 schools to knock each other out of the championship, Boston English loomed favorite in the 17th annual Northeastern school track meet at the Boston Y tomorrow afternoon in the highlight of an exceptionally busy week-end for the schoolboys.

The boys go into action today when the Bay State Hockey League swings into stride tonight at the Arena following the Greater Bostons at the Garden tomorrow afternoon; the Eastern Mass. loop at the Arena at night and the Catholic circuit at the Skating Club in the afternoon.

In the Bay State hockey listings tonight, league leading Waltham will tangle with Framingham in the top tilt while the other three contests will find Norwood facing Walpole; Needham tangling with B. C. High and Watertown colliding with Wellesley.

Tomorrow afternoon, the first of the playoff series in the exploding Greater Boston League will take over the Garden, starting at 1:30. In the top flight, Rindge Tech will be pitted against Medford and champion Melrose will cross sticks with Arlington, its victim of last week. Other tilts match surprising Newton against Cambridge Latin and Stoneham against Belmont.

Catholic League clashes pit St. Patrick's vs. St. Mary's of Waltham; Malden Catholic vs. St. Sebastian's and St. Clement's vs. Mission.

MY SON

Yes, my son, it is your birthday,
And all I have to offer;
Is a heartful of good wishes,
From a proud and happy father.

This is your second birthday,
And your Daddy's still away;
But both Mom and Dad are praying,
That your next won't be that way.

You're the boy I left behind,
When you were but half a year,
In the care of your mother,
For that I have no fear.

I've been away, too many months,
And I've seen enough to say,
That there isn't any place on earth,
Like home, in any way.

So, my son, before I close,
A happy birthday, it will be;
My one wish, I hope is granted,
To be home, before you're three.
